NHS induction ceremony

When the calendar hits May, the pace of activity picks up at Wilmington High School, beginning with the National Honor Society banquet and induction ceremony. On Tuesday night, the National Honor Society inducted 26 new members. The dinner was hosted by the Wilmington Lions Club.

Housing Authority joins suit over state furloughs

by Arlene Surprenant

Members of the Wilmington Housing Authority voted four to one Tuesday to support a class action suit being brought by National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials (NAHRO) against the state. Tom Siracusa abstained from voting.

In an effort to balance the state budget, Governor William Weld has asked housing authorities to comply with the provisions of the 1991 furlough program. The program sets up temporary vacations or furloughs for employees of the Commonwealth and its public authorities in order to save money.

In an April 11 letter to WHA Executive Director Ella Belmore, Governor Weld said since the program would result in no savings from the Wilmington Authority, Belmore would have to reduce her budget by an amount equal to a reduction in staff payroll expenses. NAHRO has taken the position that Housing Authority members and staff are not state employees and has decided to challenge the inclusion of housing authorities in the furlough program. New Chairman Dave Fitzgerald noted if NAHRO loses its suit, members would have to find ways to cut their budget.

Mike Donovan suggested, if necessary, cuts could be made in the area of solid waste, utilities, and use of the WHA answering service. Donovan said Deming Way tenants could support the town's recycling efforts to reduce solid waste costs. He suggested all present lights be replaced with flourescent bulbs to lower utility bills and members explore ways to reduce the $70. per month bill for an answering service.

New housing units now completely filled

by Arlene Surprenant

After some initial delay which caused the management rating of the Wilmington Housing Authority to plummet, all elderly and handicapped units at Deming Way are now filled.

According to Executive Director Ella Belmore, all units have been assigned and the rating has increased to eligible/qualified. WHA members voted unanimously Tuesday to have Belmore update them monthly on the occupancy of the units. Michael Donovan said, in the past, the board had been lax in overseeing tenant occupancy. Tom Siracusa said he would like to keep track of trends in the future to see why units may remain vacant. Belmore explained last year there were numerous vacancies that went unfilled because of the time it took to follow guidelines set down by the Executive Office of Communities and Development. She said units were tied up just on the number of refusals alone. Chairman Dave Fitzgerald asked to be informed when units become available.

In a related manner, Donovan chastised Belmore for not including board members in the April 16 meeting with EOCD. At that meeting, Belmore met with state officials and was successful in upping the WHA management rating.

"The wishes of the board...have not been followed," said Donovan adding he wanted to be present to discuss EOCD's concerns over tenant selection and an alleged illegal transfer to one housing unit.

Belmore said there was no time to contact the board since the meeting was set up quickly. She added other members did know about the meeting.

"I was not notified in advance," replied Donovan. Chairman Dave Fitzgerald agreed Belmore should have informed all board members before the story came out the next evening in the local papers. Dan Gillis said, for the record, he felt the whole matter had been handled properly.

Fitzgerald is WHA chairman

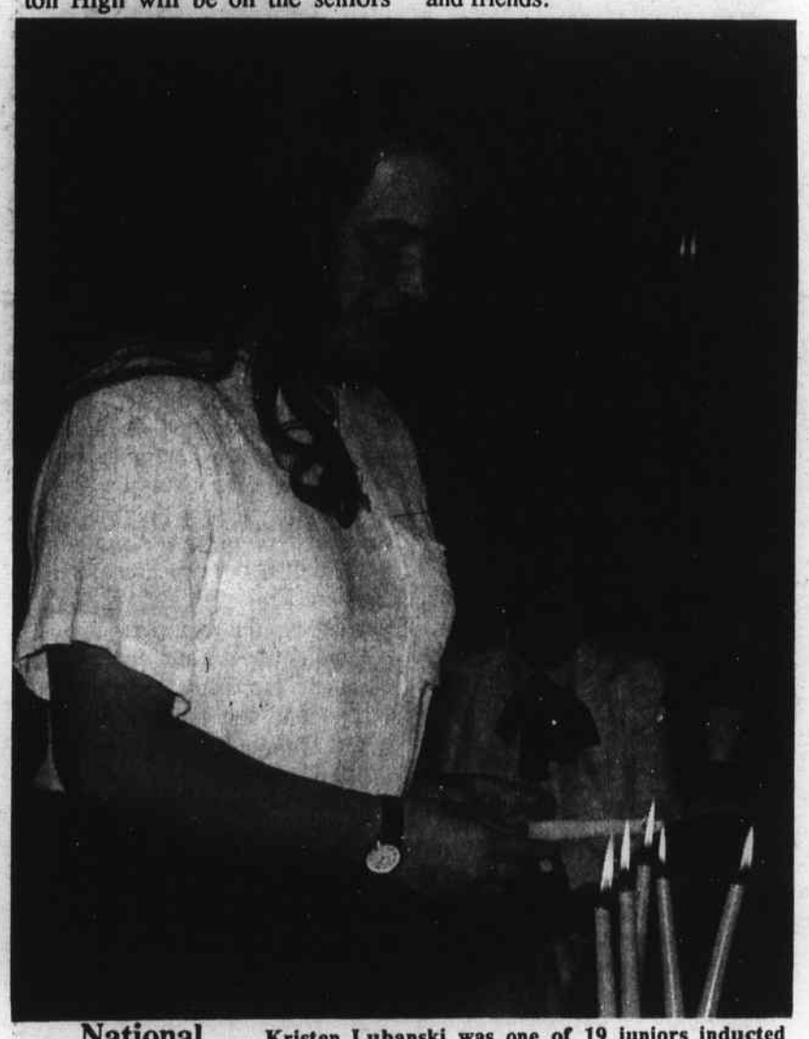

David Fitzgerald was unanimously elected chairman of the Wilmington Housing Authority in a reorganization of that board Tuesday night. Also elected as new officers for the year ahead were Dan Gillis, vice chairman, and Joan Sadowski, treasurer.

The board also welcomed Tom Siracusa. Siracusa is the state appointed member replacing former member Elaine Hachey.

Graduation nears for WHS seniors

by Arlene Surprenant

The focus of this year's graduation ceremony at Wilmington High will be on the seniors themselves, their achievements, and the receipt of their hard-earned diplomas in front of parents and friends.

National Honor Society

Kristen Lubanski was one of 19 juniors inducted into the National Honor Society in a traditional ceremony at Wilmington High School on Tuesday night. Seven seniors were also inducted.

"The high point will be everybody's receipt of their diplomas," said Principal Paul Fleming.

Graduation will take place at 2 p.m. on Sunday, June 2 on the high school athletic field. In case of inclement weather, the ceremony will be postponed to June 3 at 5 p.m. Honors, awards, and scholarships will be handed out at the Academic Convocation on Friday, May 31 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school gym.

As in the past, the ceremony will feature speeches by a faculty guest speaker, who is chosen by the Class of 1991, and the top three graduates. They are Valedictorian Susan Sweet, Salutatorian Richard Barletta, and Essayist Christine Elia. Other graduates in the top ten of the 171 member class are Nicole Bouchie, George Orfaly, David Dicenso, Jacqueline Gray, Kristina Przyjemski, Ann Marie Casey, and Jennifer Clark.

Participating in the ceremony will be the high school band, which will help usher in the Class of 1991 as members process through the arch lined entrance onto the field, Supt. William Fay, members of the Wilmington School Committee, and faculty and staff.

Fleming told this paper students furthering their education are already receiving acceptances to local colleges as well as others like Boston University and Notre Dame. He added his only hope as the graduates near the end of their high school careers is that "we've given them the foundation to do the job, to be singlemanded, and to be successful in life."

Authority to try once more for May Institute facility

by Arlene Surprenant

The Wilmington Housing Authority decided Tuesday to make one last stab at retaining a state grant in order to build a group home for autistic and mentally handicapped youngsters. The original proposal by the May Institute would have created a small home for about six children in Wilmington. Plans fell through when the State Executive Office of Communities and Development nixed the Houghton Road site chosen for the home.

Arthur Kimber, director of the Bureau of Project Management for EOCD, told the local authority without new information about the chosen site and funding, he could not agree to a meeting to discuss the possibility of reactivating the grant.

Board members were loath to drop the project. They favored transferring the money to a similar project being undertaken by an Andover couple on the grounds of Tewksbury Hospital.

Daniel Gillis urged the board to try one more time to make EOCD aware of the new project. He said he would be willing to talk to state officials. Tom Siracusa suggested the board meet with local legislators on the issue and ask them to approach EOCD in a tactful manner on the board's behalf.

Selectman Chester Bruce agreed to donate some of his time to see that the half million dollar project reaches fruition. He said there were town lots available for such a home and the proponents from Andover said they could build in Wilmington. The board voted unanimously to follow through on the project with the help of the legislative delegation.

Heroes Welcome dance postponed to June 29

The Heroes Welcome dance scheduled for May 11 has been postponed due to concern about the roof and walls of Villanova Hall.

Jim Hanley said the dance would be rescheduled to Sat., June 29 at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

The dance is being coordinated by a committee including members of the three Wilmington veterans groups (American Legion, VFW and Marine Corps League) and the Knights of Columbus. In addition to the dance, the committee is collecting funds in cans on store counters. The proceeds will go to the Massachusetts fund for Desert Storm veterans.

In a notice handed out in St. Thomas Church on Sunday, Fr. Browne said that engineers from the diocese would be examining the hall for three purposes. Two of these were to determine what would be required to put the lower hall back into usable condition, and solve heating problems with the basement. The third task for the engineers would be to give a determination about the roof of the building and the tightening of its frame and walls.

Most functions scheduled for Villanova Hall have been moved to the lower church hall.

Valedictorian Susan Sweet

Hazardous waste collection Saturday at Swain School yard

Spring cleaning often presents the dilemma of disposal of hazardous materials.

Probably the greatest collector of hazardous materials is the under-the-sink cabinet. Household compounds, those miracle cleaning products, are made up of chemicals that should be disposed of carefully. Putting them in the trash means they will be incinerated, with their poisons scattered into the air. Dumping them down the drain means they will end up in the groundwater or in Boston Harbor.

In other words, anything thrown away carelessly will come back to haunt you. A small amount of poison discarded by each person adds up to a major pollution threat.

Many products become useless as they age, and must be discarded. Often a nearly-empty container is pushed to the back of the cabinet and forgotten. Paint left over from redecorating the house three years ago cannot be used, but throwing it in the trash is not a viable option.

The Wilmington DPW will be accepting hazardous materials at the Swain School parking lot on Saturday, May 11 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Household materials accepted will include: drain cleaners, oven cleaners, furniture polish, metal polish, batteries, outdated medications, floor cleaners, window cleaners, dry cleaning fluids, radiator cleaners, arts & crafts materials.

Yard and garden materials include: pesticides (except those with 2,4,5 - T) herbicides (except Dioxin), insect pump spray, rodent killers, pool chemicals, muriatic acid, no-pest strips, septic system cleaners, and pesticides in aerosol containers.

From the garage: gasoline, paint thinners, paint remover, motor oil, antifreeze, chemistry kits, brake fluid, car batteries, wax & polish, engine & radiator flush, transmission fluid, lead paints, wood preservative.

Excluded items

The hazardous waste collection will not accept: Pesticides containing 2,4,5 - T, "Penta," explosives, ammunition, radioactives, empty containers, 55-gallon drums, gas cylinders (propane tanks), smoke detectors, or asbestos.

Latex paint is not being accepted because it is not considered hazardous.

The collection will not accept ordinary rubbish, Trash pickup is conducted at curbside on a weekly basis.

The collection program is open to Wilmington residents only, and is not open to businesses. The materials will be collected by a professional, licensed hazardous waste handler under contract to the Town of Wilmington.

Fur more information, call the Wilmington DPW at 658-4481.

Dumping violations under discussion

by Arlene Surprenant

Two dumping violations were the subject of discussion at Monday's meeting of the Wilmington Board of Health.

An illegal dumping complaint was filed against Jean Phillips of Wilson Street. Health Director Greg Erickson said the property owner has until May 15 to clear landfill and solid waste materials, including roof shingles and brush, from her land near Federal Street.

Phillips said she had cleared out a woodpile and started getting rid of the brush. She added she wasn't aware the shingles had been dumped on site. Board members said they would check out the property by next Monday.

A second complaint was filed against Mark Donovan, owner of property behind Quincy Street off Grove Avenue and apparent owner of a landscaping business. Erickson said Donovan has been filling wetlands with rubbish and solid waste material like paint cans, oil filters, and sheetrock.

According to the board of health, both owners can be fined $300 immediately for the violations as well as $20 a day for each day they fail to comply with the board's order. The latter only goes into effect after a two week period has passed.

Speed bumps to stop speeders ?

by Arlene Surprenant

Ongoing speeding problems at the Deming Way elderly housing complex led members of the Wilmington Housing Authority to try to find a solution at their meeting Tuesday night.

Tenants in attendance pointed out that senior citizens are not as agile as they used to be so cars exceeding the 15 mph speed limit pose a danger to pedestrians. Newest WHA member Tom Siracusa suggested installing temporary speed bumps as is done at the Lahey Clinic in Burlington. Executive Director Ella Belmore said the speed bumps could cause liability and snow plowing problems for the town.

In a three to two vote, the board directed Belmore to explore the speed bump option and the cost of installing them. They also asked Belmore to again send notices to tenants reminding them to adhere to the speed limit.

Green light for Stelio's septic repair

by Arlene Surprenant

A plan to repair the septic system at Stelios Restaurant on Lowell Street was okayed by the Wilmington Board of Health Monday night.

After their system failed, restaurant owners had been forced to pump it out on a regular basis. Owner Bob Katsikis has been working with health officials to take care of the problem. The most permanent solution would be to wait for the new Northeast sewer line to go past the restaurant and hook into the main trunk. According to Health Director Greg Erickson, it could take about a year to tie into the new line. In the meantime, Erickson told board members Monday night, Katsikis could follow one of three options: repair the system using trenches, develop the system in a different area from the current system and pump in both areas on an alternate basis, or set up a mandatory pumping schedule. Erickson said the first option would be a short term solution since the system would eventually fill up again with water and require more pumping. The second option, he added, was a longterm solution.

Katsikis said he preferred to go with the most inexpensive option. Board Chairman Jim Ficociello said he preferred the trench proposal and added the system would have to last two years in case of delay or other problems with bringing the sewer line through.

The director felt the problem may be too much water in the septic system rather than being clogged with grease. He said he would check this out.

The board gave Katsikis the green light to move forward with the project as soon as possible.

Lt. Brown new vice-chairman of training council

The Massachusetts Fire Training Council has unanimously elected Lt. John Brown Jr. of the Wilmington Fire Department to be the new vice chairman of that body. Lt. Brown will fill the position left vacant by the retirement of Chief Fire Warden Antonio Castro of the Department of Environmental Management. The Mass. Fire Training Council is by statute responsible for the training and certification of all fire fighters in the Commonwealth and functions as a board of directors for the operation of the Mass. Firefighting Academy based in Stow.

Brown's tenure on the Fire Training Council has included an appointment by Chairman Richard Bangs to serve on the budget sub-committee, which acts as watchdog for the finances of the Massachusetts Firefighting Academy and its personnel. Brown also served on the apparatus sub-committee that recommends and approves specifications for the fleet of fire apparatus and support vehicles which include the most advanced apparatus designed for training found in the United States. Another sub-committee which Brown serves on is the Fire Fighter Certification Committee.

The most recent appointment Lt. Brown received was to represent the Fire Training Council on the Massachusetts Hazardous Materials Liason Group. This body oversees the operation of the six regional Hazardous Incident Response Terms. In early 1987, an initiative written and followed through by Brown caused a meeting of the Professional Firefighters of Massachusetts, the Fire Chiefs of Massachusetts and the Massachusetts Fire Training Council to take place and form the Liason Group. This group developed and enacted standard operating procedures for Hazardous Material Response Teams. Through diligent lobbying, the group obtained funding to train up to 240 full time firefighters in the skills necessary to become Certified Hazardous Materials Technicians. Today, three teams are in operation and have responded to and successfully mitigated many incidents involving special hazards.

In addition to his duties within the Commonwealth as a member of the Fire Training Council, Lt. Brown has traveled to Palm Beach and Tampa, Florida to represent the council and be part of the ongoing development of the National Professional Qualifications System. Brown recently returned from Cincinnati, Ohio where he attended the Fire Department Instructors Conference. This was the third time Brown was sent to the annual conference since 1984.

Brown was first appointed to the Wilmington Fire Department as a paid on-call firefighter in 1968. In 1970, he became a full time provisional firefighter (at age 20, he was the youngest full time firefighter in the history of the Wilmington Fire Department). In 1972, Brown's appointment was made permanent through Civil Service and in 1984 he was promoted to the rank of fire lieutenant.

New sewer hinges on voters

by Bill Conlon

The installation of a new, 20-inch water main to serve S. Tewksbury hinges upon a town meeting vote, to provide funding for the project.

If the funds go through, however, a wetlands approval by selectmen is now in hand for installing the line under the Shawsheen River. A vote on Tuesday night approved the wetlands crossing, which is planned on the downstream side of Route 38, by the Knights of Columbus.

Engineer Mike Carter, of GCG Associates, described the crossing to selectmen.

A three-sided box of cement "Jersey barriers" would be dropped into the river, he said, to form a semi-dam across half of the river. The work is planned for August, he said, when the river is about one foot deep.

With half the river's flow blocked off, Carter said, a 20-foot length of pipe would be placed in a trench of some three feet deep. One length of pipe would be installed in one day, he said, if all goes well.

The following day, Carter said, a second box of Jersey barriers will be put in the river, to overlap the previous day's work. Another 20-foot pipe section will be laid in a trench, with a single joint to be connected, then the trench refilled.

After the trench is filled, Carter said, the Jersey barriers will be lifted out, leaving a buried water pipe and a (hopefully) undisturbed Shawsheen River.

JOB HUNTING COSTS

Most people don't think about taxes except for a few weeks around April 15, but the record keeping that makes deductions possible and provable goes on all year. If you are looking for a new job in your present line of work, the costs you incur are deductible as miscellaneous expenses, though they are subject to a floor of two percent of adjusted gross income.

Among the deductibles are the costs of preparing resumes and letters and the postage to send them; fees that you might pay to employment agencies or career consultants; the cost of newspapers and trade magazines bought for employment ads; the cost of assembling portfolios of your work and fees for legal and accounting advice regarding employment contracts.

If you have to travel to find a new job, transportation costs are covered, as are telephone calls, the cost of lodging, and 80 percent of related meals and entertainment expenses.

What's deductible? What isn't? Ask the professionals

In the meantime, Erickson told board members Monday night, Katsikis could follow one of three options: repair the system using trenches, develop the system in a different area from the current system and pump in both areas on an alternate basis, or set up a mandatory pumping schedule. Erickson said the first option would be a short term solution since the system would eventually fill up again with water and require more pumping. The second option, he added, was a longterm solution.

Katsikis said he preferred to go with the most inexpensive option. Board Chairman Jim Ficociello said he preferred the trench proposal and added the system would have to last two years in case of delay or other problems with bringing the sewer line through.

The director felt the problem may be too much water in the septic system rather than being clogged with grease. He said he would check this out.

The board gave Katsikis the green light to move forward with the project as soon as possible.

Lt. Brown new vice-chairman of training council

The Massachusetts Fire Training Council has unanimously elected Lt. John Brown Jr. of the Wilmington Fire Department to be the new vice chairman of that body. Lt. Brown will fill the position left vacant by the retirement of Chief Fire Warden Antonio Castro of the Department of Environmental Management. The Mass. Fire Training Council is by statute responsible for the training and certification of all fire fighters in the Commonwealth and functions as a board of directors for the operation of the Mass. Firefighting Academy based in Stow.

Brown's tenure on the Fire Training Council has included an appointment by Chairman Richard Bangs to serve on the budget sub-committee, which acts as watchdog for the finances of the Massachusetts Firefighting Academy and its personnel. Brown also served on the apparatus sub-committee that recommends and approves specifications for the fleet of fire apparatus and support vehicles which include the most advanced apparatus designed for training found in the United States. Another sub-committee which Brown serves on is the Fire Fighter Certification Committee.

The most recent appointment Lt. Brown received was to represent the Fire Training Council on the Massachusetts Hazardous Materials Liason Group. This body oversees the operation of the six regional Hazardous Incident Response Terms. In early 1987, an initiative written and followed through by Brown caused a meeting of the Professional Firefighters of Massachusetts, the Fire Chiefs of Massachusetts and the Massachusetts Fire Training Council to take place and form the Liason Group. This group developed and enacted standard operating procedures for Hazardous Material Response Teams. Through diligent lobbying, the group obtained funding to train up to 240 full time firefighters in the skills necessary to become Certified Hazardous Materials Technicians. Today, three teams are in operation and have responded to and successfully mitigated many incidents involving special hazards.

In addition to his duties within the Commonwealth as a member of the Fire Training Council, Lt. Brown has traveled to Palm Beach and Tampa, Florida to represent the council and be part of the ongoing development of the National Professional Qualifications System. Brown recently returned from Cincinnati, Ohio where he attended the Fire Department Instructors Conference. This was the third time Brown was sent to the annual conference since 1984.

Brown was first appointed to the Wilmington Fire Department as a paid on-call firefighter in 1968. In 1970, he became a full time provisional firefighter (at age 20, he was the youngest full time firefighter in the history of the Wilmington Fire Department). In 1972, Brown's appointment was made permanent through Civil Service and in 1984 he was promoted to the rank of fire lieutenant.

New sewer hinges on voters

by Bill Conlon

The installation of a new, 20-inch water main to serve S. Tewksbury hinges upon a town meeting vote, to provide funding for the project.

If the funds go through, however, a wetlands approval by selectmen is now in hand for installing the line under the Shawsheen River. A vote on Tuesday night approved the wetlands crossing, which is planned on the downstream side of Route 38, by the Knights of Columbus.

Engineer Mike Carter, of GCG Associates, described the crossing to selectmen.

A three-sided box of cement "Jersey barriers" would be dropped into the river, he said, to form a semi-dam across half of the river. The work is planned for August, he said, when the river is about one foot deep.

With half the river's flow blocked off, Carter said, a 20-foot length of pipe would be placed in a trench of some three feet deep. One length of pipe would be installed in one day, he said, if all goes well.

The following day, Carter said, a second box of Jersey barriers will be put in the river, to overlap the previous day's work. Another 20-foot pipe section will be laid in a trench, with a single joint to be connected, then the trench refilled.

After the trench is filled, Carter said, the Jersey barriers will be lifted out, leaving a buried water pipe and a (hopefully) undisturbed Shawsheen River.

JOB HUNTING COSTS

Most people don't think about taxes except for a few weeks around April 15, but the record keeping that makes deductions possible and provable goes on all year. If you are looking for a new job in your present line of work, the costs you incur are deductible as miscellaneous expenses, though they are subject to a floor of two percent of adjusted gross income.

Among the deductibles are the costs of preparing resumes and letters and the postage to send them; fees that you might pay to employment agencies or career consultants; the cost of newspapers and trade magazines bought for employment ads; the cost of assembling portfolios of your work and fees for legal and accounting advice regarding employment contracts.

If you have to travel to find a new job, transportation costs are covered, as are telephone calls, the cost of lodging, and 80 percent of related meals and entertainment expenses.

What's deductible? What isn't? Ask the professionals

Paul on pols

A veteran at beating the odds

by Paul H. Sullivan

On Tuesday of last week the citizens of the United States were treated to another chapter in the life of Paul Tsongas.

Many may remember Paul Tsongas as the young Lowell City Councillor who bucked conventional wisdom and attempted to capture a seat on the Middlesex County Commission. At that time most people wrote Tsongas off as a hopeless do gooder who would be eaten up by the ruthless politician who dominated county politics at that time. But against all odds Tsongas won a seat on the county commission. Tsongas went on institute a reform movement that disassembled the old boy network which dominated that government for centuries.

At that time Tsongas began to test the waters for a congressional race. Unfortunately for Tsongas, the seat in Congress was being held by a freshman congressman, Paul Cronin. Cronin who had the support of the Lowell Sun , the district's largest newspaper and the home town newspaper of Tsongas, he was naturally unbeatable. But Tsongas decided to take on Cronin anyway. Most political pundits saw this as a fool's errand. But against all odds Tsongas beat Cronin to become the 5th district congressman.

After serving two terms Tsongas appeared to heading towards a comfortable career as the 5th district congressman, until he decided to take on long-time United States Senator Ed Brooke. Brooke was seen as a safe bet to win re-election. Again most observers saw this as the road to political retirement for Tsongas. Even if he were to win the nomination of the Democratic Party, which seemed unlikely given the fact that Paul Guzzi, the Secretary of State of Massachusetts had already run state wide and Tsongas was almost a complete unknown outside his congressional district Tsongas would have to beat the well financed Brooke.

Tsongas emerged as Massachusetts junior senator after reports circulated, telling of Brooke's messy divorce. Now those who had doubted Tsongas were resigned themselves to the fact that their was something special about this man. Talk circulated that Tsongas could be an attractive candidate for national office at some future date.

But first Tsongas had the task of running for re-election. This seemed almost certain Tsongas had distinguished himself as a solid senator, whose low key style made him popular with the electorate. With only months before his re-election campaign Tsongas was diagnosed with cancer.

Tsongas at this time embarked on his most important race, the race for his life. Tsongas under went experimental bone marrow surgery and chemotherapy. After a long battle Tsongas was declared cancer-free. Again Tsongas beat the odds.

Now after seven years out of the limelight, Tsongas has decided to again attempt the impossible. But those who have seen this guy beat the odds before are not so fast to dismiss him, as a matter of this is just the type of quest that Tsongas likes, the impossible.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

Kevin Sowyrda's column relative to my involvement with Article 13 at the Annual Town Meeting was filled with inaccuracies, but what more could you expect from the Town Crier?

Kevin Sowyrda was not at the meeting.

I did not file an amendment to the Council on Aging Article, nor did I speak against it. A citizen rose from the floor to ask the State Representative to give his opinion of the article.

I replied that the article should be treated like the Town Budget. I said that it should be deferred until June 10.

The reason I gave for this recommendation was that debate on the State Budget had not commenced; and it might be wiser to delay action until the 10th of June to make sure that no new language might appear in the State Budget that could conflict with what was being proposed at the Town Meeting, and eventually affect any reimbursement we might be entitled to.

My argument centered around the fact that, like the budget, nothing would be lost by post-poning this article until June10. How would your columnist know this? He was not present at the Town Meeting.

And the "point - counter - point" centered around this issue only.

Needless to say, I have my own opinion regarding this Article and some of the other items in your column, but that is for another time in another setting.

Fred, I think the reading public would find it more intresting if you told the story about a phone conversation you had with a current town official in Tewksbury regarding a phone conversation he had with Kevin Sowyrda while you and Kevin were in your office. You wouldn't print it because the public would be shocked.

James R. Miceli
State Representative

Editor's reply: Kevin Sowyrda watched the town meeting live on cable television while taking notes on his Macintosh. Although TV viewers might miss some of the out-of-camera action, cable does provide a clear record of who said what into the microphone, which is where the representative spoke. While Rep. Miceli did not offer a motion on the Council on Aging article, he was quite outspoken on the subject, speaking repeatedly with great emphasis in a debate with the town manager.

The matter alluded to with the Tewksbury town official was handled internally at the Town Crier. Because it is not possible to sort out who was telling the truth, it has been assigned to the department of background information. —lfn

Dear Larz:

I hope the people who read your paper noticed that you got caught with your hand in the cookie jar last week. In fact, you got caught committing a dishonest act.

The author of your letters, Thomas Sanderson, doesn't exist. You say it's a pseudonym (a made up name) used because he or she chooses not to sign their name. Why didn't you use "Name withheld by request" as you usually do?

You're the only newspaper that allows "Name withheld by request." If you have to go back to Ben Franklin to tell us he used pseudonyms, then your argument stinks to high heaven. I say that the pen behind the fake "Thomas Sanderson" is one of your political phonies.

You lied, and I hope the public lets you know as I did: Wilmington needs clean journalism badly. I hope the Advertiser extends its coverage in Wilmington as they have done in Tewksbury.

Edward Holmes

Editor's reply: Obviously the person who wrote under the name of Thomas Sanderson struck a nerve. Obviously he is someone who knows something about politics in Wilmington.

We're not going to try to sell you the Brooklyn Bridge. But recognize that a letter to the editor is presented as opinion, not reporting.

Many newspapers go a step beyond "name withheld by request" and offer a "sound-off line" where readers can phone in opinions anonymously. The example of Franklin was used to demonstrate that pseudonyms are not only widespread, but have a historical basis of some legitimacy. To say that the Town Crier is the only newspaper that allows a writer to withhold his name would be correct only if you were to say "the only paper in Wilmington to allow . . ."

Our policy remains that if a writer identifies himself to the editor, his or her identity can be withheld, and a pseudonym can be used. Anonymous letters, though, are not accepted.

What we're talking about here is the right of the public to express opinions without the threat of harassment. The example of a former selectman visiting Fred Stone late one night offers a good example of why some people might wish their identities screened. —lfn

Dear Larz:

I am pleased to praise the television crew who volunteered their time and energy to bring live Town Election coverage to the views of Wilmington on WCTV Channel 30. Although I have worked in access television for over four years, I have never seen such teamwork displayed by this crew of five WCTV volunteers.

Led by volunteer producer Steve Sabounjian, the WCTV election coverage crew consisted of Mark Paolini, camera operator Chuck Johnston, audio operator Steve Knight and graphics operator Linda Corbett.

This volunteer effort to bring the Wilmington election results to live television was the largest of its kind in WCTV history. Those residents present at the town hall witnessed access cable television in action: volunteers producing informative, local television for the community.

Congratulations to the dedicated crew for a job well done. This was what WCTV is all about.

Sincerely,
Karen M. Kirk
WCTV General Manager

frankly speaking

by Kevin John Sowyrda

With a looming deficit so large that voters have had to delay town meeting money matters until June, the community should start to entertain some novel budget ideas previously dismissed as "excessive measures." In the present economy and budget crisis, yesterday's "excessive measures" are tomorrow's solutions.

One budget solution for Wilmington is consolidating the school population into fewer school buildings.

Wilmington High School is a perfect example of the impact of declining enrollments, educating just half the students it did ten years ago, with an enrollment drop over the last ten years of 46 percent, down from 1,266 youngsters in 1980 to 686 today.

That says it all.

Likewise, over the same period there has been a 17 percent student population decrease at the West Intermediate, 15 percent decrease at the North Intermediate and 5 percent decrease at the Woburn Street School. The remaining two schools, the Wildwood and Shawsheen, have both experienced growth over the last decade, which can be attributed to new construction in those respective parts of town.

However, overall the Wilmington public school population has declined a significant 18 percent over the last ten years. Accordingly, vacant space seems to be the most abundant resource the school department has right now.

Why should the taxpayers operate so much space for so few bodies?

Well, they shouldn't.

Recognizing this responsible, though politically unpopular, fiscal fact, Superintendent Bill Fay had recommended early on in the budget process that school closings be considered. His recommendation, not surprisingly, was rejected out of hand by his superiors on the school committee.

Local aid has already been cut and may pay a second visit to the chopping block. The expenses for school building maintenance are huge. They represent the biggest chunk of the municipal capital budget and the insurance costs alone are staggering. It's perhaps ironic that there has been some discussion that the town would resume control of the old Boutwell School which now hosts the Abundant Life Christian School; which pays the whopping $100,000 annual insurance premium on that building while also maintaining it.

Next fiscal year Wilmington couldn't afford even that, never mind the accompanying compliment of professional and support staff. Further, the last thing we need is more classroom space.

The best way for public education to survive this budget mayhem is to pull back and consolidate. Closing neighborhood schools will always trigger an initial knee jerk public reaction, but in the end, what harm would come to kids. The length of a bus ride going from ten minutes to maybe fifteen, traffic considered? Parents having to drive an extra few minutes to their child's new elementary school, replacing the one closed?

Wilmington is not exactly a sprawling metropolis. Whatever school buildings are closed the added distance to student and parent travel would in all cases be minimum. And if done properly, school building consolidations do not have to necessarily mean big increases in student to teacher ratios.

Closing school buildings in a system where the largest is half empty is good, common sense, regardless of how unpopular politically.

McCoyisms

It's an established journalistic theorem that writers should not devote their space to respond to letters to the editor. On the other hand, people may believe unchallenged drivel no matter how absurd, like "Bob Cain threw the first punch", etc.

In last week's Town Crier local pizza purveyor Michael V. (not for victory) McCoy, AKA the Indicted One, insinuated that this columnist was using the pseudonym "Thomas Sanderson" to write a letter to the editor.

The charge is absolutely untrue and as proof I offer my most ardent reader

"Ten Reasons Why I Am Not Thomas Sanderson.":

1. I get paid to write Frankly Speaking. Writing letters for free would be like you using disguise to make pizzas for Rocco.

2. While "Sanderson" was writing that Dr. (not medical) Shirley Callan was worthy of re-election and touting Andrea Paglia for Chairman of the School Committee, I used them both as examples for repealing the 19th Amendment. I was right, Sanderson wrong.

3. Sanderson wrote sarcastically about a public official's unemployment. Too many Americans are walking that painful path today and I would have directed my sarcasm in a different direction.

4. You say Fred gave birth to "Sanderson." I call Fred a lot of things but "Dad" isn't one of them.

5. "Sanderson" called the Tech School Committee "obscure." I thought it was more important than the obscure seat on the Board of Selectmen you used to occupy.

6. "Sanderson" compared me to Dukakoid Thomas Larkin. I'd almost rather be compared to you, Mike.

7. Readers were reminded that I lost to the invisible rabbit, Harvey. While I can't ignore the subject, I try to paint a more flattering picture.

8. "Sanderson" failed to point out that Mike Smith worked for you for three years and Margaret Imbimbo accepted, though has yet to cash (saved for framing), a check from your uncle, Jim Miceli; facts I wouldn't have overlooked.

9. It would take an act of Congress for Fred to give me another 25 column inches in the paper. He doesn't want to print half my stuff as it is.

10. I consider it my duty to point it out when you or other public figures try to con the public. If I take a shot at you, Mike, I want the credit. To show my sincerity I want you to know I am not Thomas Sanderson, I am Kevin Sowyrda, and you are not Bob Woodward, you are the Indicted One, the Indicted One, the Indicted One, the Indicted One, the Indicted One, the Indicted One. . .

P.S. If the jury finds you guilty you're looking at potential jail time at the Billerica House of Correction. I have called the sheriff directly and have no fear. The Town Crier will be delivered directly to your cell. However, we will no longer be able to accept your letters to the editor as you have previously written that non-residents should not be allowed to so write.

P.P.S. The good news is that your soon-to-be fellow townsman in Billerica would be Fred Stone, whose house you last visited rather late in the evening. Sanderson, who ever you are, good move. The pseudonym prevents uninvited midnight callers.

Kiwanians to clean Lubbers Brook

Members of the Wilmington Kiwanis Club will be in North Wilmington Center on Saturday, cleaning up the area around Lubbers Brook. Vice President Karen Boeri is heading up the project.

In addition to litter, the area has a large number of dead trees in the swamp through which the brook flows. It will be interesting to see if the Kiwanians are able to do anything with those trees.

Workers are to meet at Winston's at 8 a.m. Saturday.

Tech students earn VICA medals

Students from Shawsheen Tech struck gold,silver and bronze at the state competition of Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (Vica) in Falmouth recently. Students won 10 gold, two silver and two bronze medals. Gold medalists will represent not only Shawsheen, but the State of Mass. at the National Skill Olympics of Vica in June in Louisville, Ky.

Danielle Gormley and Christine Stevens of Wilmington, Health Knowledge Bowl; Lisa Matthews of Tewksbury machine drafting, and Jennifer Riessle, also of Tewksbury, Bulletin Board display, were among the gold medalists.

Winners of bronze medals included Carmen Zullo of Tewksbury, machine drafting.

The five member team from Shawsheen Health Technology program beat their Mass. competitors by more than 10,000 points in the Health Knowledge Bowl to win the gold.

Barbara Ahern, health technology instructor commented "Our students never made an error."

Dr. Jenkins praises health center performance -- past, present, and future

by Arlene Surprenant

Wilmington residents have long taken pride in having their own health center. One of the most fortunate aspects of having a local facility has been the availability of quality health care not only during regular office hours but on an emergency basis as well. When financial problems developed at the Regional Health Center's parent organization, Choate-Symmes, many citizens wondered what would become of the local facility off Route 62. They needn't have worried. Winchester Hospital stepped in and took over in May 1990.

In the last year there have been several changes for the better and many new faces at the Wilmington center.One of those faces belongs to Dr. Jon Jenkins, chairman of the Department of Emergency Medicine at Winchester and head of the Urgent Care Walk-In Center in Wilmington. In addition, he is president of medical staff at Winchester and, in that capacity, meets on a regular basis with the hospital's board of directors.

Soft spoken, low key, and very much a professional, Dr.Jenkins divides his time among emergency patients in Wilmington, Winchester, and at the Woburn Walk-In Center. About 25 hours a week are spent in attending to administrative duties. The rest of the time he can be found handling everything from lacerations and stomach aches to knife wounds and cardiac arrests.

Dr. Jenkins took over the urgent care center at the same time Winchester took over from Choate-Symmes. He earned his degree from the Harvard Medical School in 1977 and trained both in internal and emergency medicine. The 40-year-old doctor joined the staff at Winchester in 1981. One of his proudest achievements while there has been the publication of his Manual of Emergency Medicine, a quick reference textbook for emergency physicians. The thick manual was co-authored by colleague Joseph Loscalzo, published in 1985, and is now found on the shelves of most emergency centers around the country. It is printed in five languages and is updated each year. On a personal level, Dr.Jenkins lives with his wife Catherine and two children, Annie, nine, and John Michael, five, in Concord.

Working in emergency medicine wouldn't appeal to every doctor because of the obvious pressures each day and the need to be knowledgeable in a wide range of illnesses and diseases. Dr. Jenkins shrugs off the pressure, saying it's something you get used to. He says his reward comes in being able to help people when they need help the most.

"There's a real variety in this job. We do a little bit of everything. It's very satisfying," the doctor explains. He adds with a laugh, "I couldn't stand being in an office."

The pressures of working in an emergency center are very real. Doctors in this field have to be "mentally geared" to handle quickly any situation which develops. Emergency doctors in Wilmington, Winchester and Woburn care for approximately 65,000 patients a year. On a typical day at Wilmington's Regional Health Center, emergency physicians can treat as many as 90 patients a day.

"A lot of my patients are extremely ill," explains Dr. Jenkins, adding "one of my greatest challenges is trying to provide prompt care for people that makes them want to come back."

Anyone who has recently received treatment at the urgent care center in Wilmington may or may not have noticed changes in staff, equipment, and service. Previously, residents or fellows handled emergency chores. Now about 15 full time Winchester physicians divide their time between their own hospital and the Regional Health Center, putting in two or three eight hour shifts in the emergency unit alone. Doctors are assisted by four nurses on each shift.

Since being affiliated with Winchester, equipment at the Wilmington facility has been upgraded. Today, for example, there is a new mammography machine, a new low radiation fluoroscope x-ray machine for examining internal organs, and ultra-sound services available. In addition to state of the art equipment, there is also a greater availability of medicines such as Tissue Plasminogen Activator (TPA), which is given to heart patients. In the past, it could take almost an hour to obtain some medicines. This delay posed a risk to those patients who needed immediate attention.

Dr. Jenkins feels that in previous years there was an emphasis on treating and getting patients out as quickly as possible. This, he maintains, led to a few problems. In addition, critically ill patients occasionally had to be turned away and treated elsewhere because of the health center's limitations.

"We have changed that completely," the doctor said. Now, with more physicians trained in emergency care, more serious patients are treated right in Wilmington. However, he added, there still is no blood bank or operating room at the local facility.

A big plus in the past year has been the use of paramedics, who are on the road and readily respond to any emergency. Paramedics can do such things as start an intravenous line, defibrillate a patient, and put in an airway if there is an obstruction. When an emergency call comes in to local police or fire departments in the 10 towns serviced by Winchester Hospital paramedics, a Basic Life Support Team and an Advanced Life Support unit are dispatched to the scene simultaneously. Once the paramedics reach the scene they call Winchester Hospital and receive orders on handling the emergency situation. Winchester representatives have met with Wilmington fire officials and drawn up a plan so that firemen on emergency calls will know which patients should be transported to the health center and which to other hospitals. It is this cooperation which literally saves lives, notes Dr. Jenkins.

Despite all the improvements, there is still a big problem left to solve. That problem is how to encourage more residents to use the health center.

"Right now I think the facility is very much under utilized. People don't really know it's there," says Dr. Jenkins. He goes on to theorize that with the bankruptcy of Choate Hospital two years ago, many people may be under the impression the Regional Health Center has closed its doors. Nothing could be further from the truth. The Center is open from 7:30 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. 365 days a year.

In looking to the future, Dr. Jenkins would like to reconfigure present space in the urgent care center and add more rooms to better serve the public. He also favors the expansion of the radiology department and points out Winchester Hospital officials are planning to commit more funds to the local facility to further improve it down the road.

Speaking for himself he would only add that Wilmington's Regional Health Center "is a great place to work."

Thank you

I would like to thank all the people who voted for and supported me during the recent election. I certainly appreciated it.

I would also like to thank my campaign manager, Mike Donovan for all the hard work he did for me. I can't thank him enough. He's such a nice person.

The Wilmington Housing Authority holds its monthly meeting in the Deming Way Community Hall on the first Tuesday of the month at 7:30 p.m. This meeting is open to the public. I urge everyone interested to attend.

Thank you,

Living proof that a heart attack can save your life.

When Tom DiNuccio was wakened by sharp chest pains, he thought, like so many victims of a heart attack, that it was the end. On the contrary, it was just the beginning. The beginning of a new way of life that would give Tom something very precious—a second chance.

Though he was only 44 years old, everything about Tom's life had put him at risk. Too much stress. Too little exercise. Too little awareness of a healthy diet. Basically, he lived like most of us do. But having a heart attack saved Tom's life. Motivated by fears of a reoccurrence, he came to New England Memorial's Cardiac Rehabilitation Program. Here, Tom was introduced to new ways of thinking, eating, exercising, and coping with stress that have become the foundations for a whole new lease on life.

And because having a heart attack at such a young age—at any age—is a real psychological blow, Tom's rehab included valuable counseling and support that, in his words, "Helped me get on track and made me want to help myself."

Today, when asked what his special interests or hobbies are, Tom's answer is simple: "I enjoy life." Living proof that cardiac patients who want a second chance really take our advice to heart.

Shawsheen School

Mrs. Karen Larrabee, art teacher at the Shawsheen School has been selected as one of five 1991 outstanding art educators in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Mrs. Jones' class has been working on a gigantic paper mache' whale. It's finished, it's painted and ready to be named. Not to be out done Mrs. Rowe's second grade classroom is also making a twin paper mache' whale.

May 16 is the date of the ice cream smorgasbord. Tickets on sale at the office.

May 18 we'll be looking for help on picking up Kids' Place. Look for the bulletin from the P.A.C.

Saturday, May 18 at 8 p.m. as part of weekend of events Ms. Grossman, Mrs. Keating, Ms. Folkins and Ms. Girouard will be singing in a concert of 18th century music. Tickets are $4 for an evening concert at the Congregational Church in Wilmington. Other events taking place on the weekend are a ham and bean supper, a reenactment of a revolutionary battle involving Wilmington Minutemen and British Soldiers. Concert tickets may be purchased by sending a request in care of Ms. Grossman at the Shawsheen School.

Monday, April 29, Capt. Paul Geery, an artillery officer and cousin of Anthony and Alicia Forester visited the Shawsheen School to answer questions and better inform the boys and girls as to the mission of the United States in the Persian Gulf. Captain Geery shared his Meal Read to Eat (MRE) with the boys and girls and showed his gas mask. Captain Geery is a graduate of Norwich University in Vermont and Woburn High School.

The Shawsheen Pac would like to invite parents of any child entering the Shawsheen Kindergarten in the fall to attend our next meeting on Monday, May 20. Our guest speaker will be kindergarten teacher Nancy Murphy. She will talk about the Math-Their-Way Program that is currently being used in kindergarten. All Pac meetings are open to parents of Shawsheen students.

Scout show

Den leader Lori Reppucci and son Robert are shown with the space shuttle model made by Cub Scouts of Pack 136. The shuttle was on display at the Scout Show held on Saturday at Cawley Field in Lowell.

Pack 136 tops ticket sales for scout show

Cub Scouts from Pack 136 in Wilmington topped the ticket sales for the Greater Lowell Council Scout Show on May 4 in Lowell. Pack 136 Scouts sold tickets worth $2610, compared to the next highest sale of $1880, with 74 units taking part. A percentage of the sale goes back to the pack.

The theme of the show was "A Bridge to the Future." Pack 136 had a booth with a model of the space shuttle, built by the Cubs of Den One.

Thousands of scouts from throughout the council took part in the show, which was held in Cawley Stadium.

Other recent happenings with the pack: The annual fishing derby was held at Horn Pond on April 28. Prizes were awarded to the boys with the biggest, smallest, and most fish.

The Webelos spring outing took place with the Boy Scouts of Troop 136 at the Goldsmith reservation in Andover. The day of outdoor events included following a compass course and building a rope bridge. The day ended with a campfire and a pizza party.

The Webelos also went on a field trip on April 16 to the Gloucester Coast Guard Station to learn about the Coast Guard's communications systems. The trip gave the boys points toward their communications merit badge.

Susan Sweet receives $1,500 scholarship

Susan R. Sweet, daughter of Gertrude and Robert Sweet of 43 Aldrich Road, Wilmington, recently received one of six $1,500 scholarships awarded by the Utility Contractors' Association of New England, Inc. of Quincy.

The scholarships, are presented to high school seniors who have achieved high personal goals, scholastically and within their community and civic, religious and volunteer organizations.

Susan accepted the award at a dinner held in her honor at La Casa Bianca in Canton.

She received early acceptance to Harvard University and Radcliffe College. She plans to major in economics and minor in political science.

Susan Koufogazos new WCTV president

Wilmington Community Television, Inc., the Community Television Station in Wilmington, is getting so busy these days that I, as general manager, omitted my monthly addition to this newspaper. Each month, I try to give the readers an overview about last month's programming; special events, courses, and more. I hope this article each month, entices you enough about WCTV that you may want to become involved. WCTV is your community's television station. Get involved - stay involved.

In March WCTV held its annual meeting for the board of directors and the WCTV members. The board of directors elected Susan Koufogazos its new president. She is doing a wonderful job in her new position, reorganizing various committees and encouraging the members to become a part of a WCTV committee, such as publicity, membership, programming and the like. I as general manager, heartily welcome Susan Koufogazos to this position.

Vice President is Beverly Shea. Mike Niestepski is taking Stella Courtney's position as treasurer and Jean Morrison is back for another successful year as secretary. Four new board members are Ruth Durkee, Sandra Volpe, Arthur Breault and Chester Soderquist.

Basic access class graduates Tom Kilburn, Arthur Breault, Betty Bigwood and Leonard Rockoff are producing a variety of local programming for Wilmington Community Television, Inc. Watch for their names in future credits.

Town Manager Michael Caira is a great Wilmington Community Television Inc. supporter. Mr. Caira produced a 40 minute program, highlighting each of the town meeting warrant articles. The premises behind this program was to better inform the town meeting goer about the articles. Also, Mr. Caira produced an hour long live call-in program "Town Meeting Preview." This program included an esteemed panel: Town Moderator James Stewart, Finance Chairman Paul Palizzolo, School Superintendent William Fay, Selectmen Chairman Robert Doucette, and School Committee Chairwoman Shirley Callan. Many residents called to specifically speak to one of the public officials or to ask a general question about one of the town meeting warrant articles. WCTV hopes that both of these programs become an annual event at the community station.

WCTV wants to become an integral part of the upcoming Colonial Weekend on May 17-19. Those interested are asked to call 657-4066.

Wilmington Community Television, Inc. is your community television station. If your community organization, school, church, committee would like to become more involved with WCTV, I am available to speak at a future meeting. Please feel free to contact Karen M. Kirk, general manager at 657-4066. Please give at least two week's notice.

Rabies clinic

Wilmington dog owners are reminded that there will be a rabies clinic on Sat., May 18 from 12 noon to 1:30 p.m. at the DPW garage off Andover Street. A veterinarian will be on hand to administer the shots. The innoculation is good for three years, although puppy shots should be renewed after one year. The cost is $5.00.

Dog licenses will be available at the clinic, at a cost of $6 for spayed or neutered dogs, and $10 for unspayed.

Arts Council hosts art exhibition

The Wilmington Council for the Arts has invited visitors to its Art Center (old town hall, across from Congregational Church on Middlesex Avenue) for an enjoyable afternoon of painting exhibits and music on Sunday, May 19 from 1 to 4. The council is happy to open its doors on that afternoon to participate in the Liberty Pole weekend festivities planned to raise funds to renovate the high school auditorium.

However, there will be no admission fee to the Art Center and all residents of Wilmington as well as tourists are cordially invited.

Adele Passmore, a member of the council is providing an exhibit entitled, "Wilmington Past: A Photographic Journey" which should prove of much interest to members of the community. Ms. Passmore will also show gravestone rubbings which she has done in the past.

Adding to the local color of the exhibits will be the paintings of Wilmington's churches done by Dan Ballou, Sr.

In keeping with the colonial atmosphere of the weekend's celebration Barbara Zaino will provide appropriate music by playing the dulcimer.

All are most welcome! Children, too!

Democratic Committee to hold fundraiser

The Wilmington Democratic Town Committee (WDTC) will be holding its third annual scholarship fundraiser Saturday, May 18 from 8:30 a.m. to noon at Rocco's Restaurant, 193 Main Street.

Middlesex County Sheriff John McGonigle will attend as a special guest speaker.

All proceeds from the fundraiser will go to assist Wilmington students who are 1991 graduates of Wilmington High School and Shawsheen Tech who plan to continue their education at an accredited college or technical school. Last year the Wilmington Democrats awarded two $300.00 scholarships.

Tickets will be available at the door, or in advance from any one of the members of the WDTC, or by calling Chairman Michael Donovan at (508)657-7426.

Student art exhibit at TMHS

The Tewksbury Public Schools will sponsor the ninth annual art exhibit in conjunction with the high school Spring Concert, May 14 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at Tewksbury Memorial High School.

The students will receive ribbons in four levels, grades kindergarten through three, four through six, seven and eight and nine to 12. The categories in which entries will be judged are pottery, photography, pen and ink, painting, pastels, pencil, crayon, assemblage, sculpture, graphics, calligraphy, marker and mixed media. Certificates will be awarded to every participant.

The public is cordially invited to attend and see what the students have accomplished.

Health students to receive pins

A pinning ceremony to recognize the accomplishments of senior students in the Health Technology program at Shawsheen Tech will take place Wednesday, May 8 at 6:30 p.m. in the auditorium.

Students to be pinned for completing programs in medical assisting, nurse assisting and/or EKG technician include: Christine Adams, Edward Beaudoin and Karen Kelley of Wilmington; Lauren Beston and Jill McCauley of Tewksbury.

Guest speakers will include Patrick Milford, director of cardiology at St. John's Hospital and Mary Zaker, R.N., education coordinator, St. John's.

Tewksbury Republicans will meet

The Tewksbury Republican Town Committee will hold its annual meeting Monday, May 13 in the Tewksbury Town Library.

The committee will elect a slate of candidates for the board of registrars.

All are invited to attend. Any questions should be directed to the Tewksbury Republican Town Committee chairman at 508-858-0936.

Arrhythmias course

Winchester Hospital is now offering Intermediate Arrhythmias course, which includes learning about heart blocks, EKG changes in MI, external and internal pacing, electrolyte effect on the EKG, etc.

This program is offered in three parts, on May 8, 22 and 29 from 9 a.m. to noon at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington. Nine contact hours will be awarded. To register and for price information, contact Winchester Hospital's Education Department at (617) 756-2220.

Funzone Jog-a-thon May 31

The Friends of Funzone will be coordinating a Jog-a-thon May 31 to benefit the Funzone Playground. Funzone will be located behind the Woburn Street School in Wilmington.

The playground, a model of which is on display at Wilmington Memorial Library, will be geared toward promoting physical health and conditioning.

For each lap the Woburn Street School students complete, their sponsors will donate an agreed upon amount of money to help defray the cost of building Funzone. Students will be seeking sponsors throughout this month. Please help, all the children of Wilmington and surrounding towns need your assistance.

Wilmington police news

Tuesday evening Officers Hancock and Mauriello arrested a New Hampshire man on West Street. A second suspect escaped prior to the officers' arrival. Joseph Fay, 24 of Salem, N.H. was charged with breaking and entry into a dwelling in the nighttime. Cross was held over night in the lockup as police were unable to verify his identity. He was taken to Woburn Court in the morning. Fay originally identified himself as Joseph Cross of Salem, N.H.

At 2 a.m. Wednesday Officer David Sugrue arrested Mark Richards, of Waltham while on patrol on Middlesex Avenue. Richards was charged with operating without a license and giving a false name to a police officer.

Officer Larry Redding arrested a local man at 10:30 a.m. Thursday after investigating an accident on Phillips Avenue. Michael Gray, 25 of Dewey Avenue was charged with operating under the influence of alcohol, second offense and leaving the scene of a property damage accident. He was bailed for a Friday court appearance in Woburn. Upon his arraignment, Gray's license will be suspended after his failing the breathalyzer test with a reading of .30.

Friday afternoon Richard Maynard of Everett was arrested by Officer Frank Hancock and charged with violation of a restraining order after officers responded to a complaint of threats. He was bailed after posting $500 to appear in Woburn Court Monday.

Two people were arrested on warrants Sunday evening. Ellinda Boudouris, 57 of Reading was taken in at 4:30 p.m. by Officer Mauriello on the basis of a larceny by check warrant. She was bailed on personal recognizance. A short time later Joseph Pappalardo, 33 of Lawrence was arrested on a local warrant. He was admitted to bail after posting $390 pending his court appearance.

Monday morning Officer Joe Harris drove to Lynn Court to arrest Le Dt Vuong, of Lawrence on the basis of a motor vehicle default warrant. He was taken directly to Woburn Court.

Two juvenile males were arrested on Grove Avenue about 8:45 p.m. Monday by Officers Farnkoff and Waterhouse. Both youths were charged with using a motor vehicle without authority and receiving stolen property. They were released to their parents pending an appearance in juvenile court Wednesday.

Richard Britton, 20 of Haverhill was arrested by officers Martignetti and Sugrue at the Haverhill PD on a default warrant. He was held in the lockup to appear in court in the morning.

Special attention commercial/manufacturing

The Wilmington Police Department is concerned with the number of police-related organizations that are soliciting funds in Wilmington by phone and mail. Some of these solicitors have been identifying themselves as Wilmington officers, or say they are collecting for the Wilmington Police Department, which in most cases is not true.

The Wilmington Police Association conducts one fund raising drive each year. This is generally done during the month of January. This drive is conducted under strict control of association members. Our juvenile and safety officers do solicit funds or donations of articles during the year, but this is usually done through direct contact with companies and fraternal organizations.

We hasten to add that even though many of the other soliciting programs may in fact be legitimate causes, they are not sponsored nor endorsed by the Wilmington Police Association. We have no way of knowing, to whom, nor how much of the funding is actually given to the sponsoring agency.

Anyone with doubts or concerns about any solicitation should call the police station with your questions. The business line is 658-5071.

Whist party Monday

The first whist party of May will be held in the function room of the Senior Center Monday, May 13 starting at 1 p.m. The Kiwanis Club's monthly donation to the seniors is used toward the prizes for the winners of the games. Now that the warm weather has arrived it's time to get away from working about the house and watching the tv soaps. Join the many seniors participating in the activity programs at the Center. Why not start with the whist next Monday. You will not only spend an enjoyable afternoon, but you will also meet some nice people and may even leave with a dollar or so as the winner of a game.

May social

The May therapeutic social will be held Thursday, May 9 in the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks Hall. We have a few seniors left on our waiting list. If you feel you cannot attend, call the center so we can fill your seat with a senior on the list. Remember you know what your table number is, so it is not necessary for you to be at the hall before 6:30 p.m. All tables will be numbered.

Dr.Leavitt

Podiatrist Dr. Leavitt will be at the center Friday morning May 10 from 9 a.m. He will remain at the center only until he treats all those waiting to see him.

Skin cancer screening

The American Cancer Society and the American Academy of Dermatology will be co-sponsoring a free skin cancer screening.It is their hope that the elderly will take advantage of the screening. Melanoma the most serious form of skin cancer is increasing at a faster rate than most cancers except lung cancer. It is expected 600,000 new cases of melanoma will be diagnosed in 1991. Most of them will be cured if they are detected early. What should be checked in this screening is:

If you have an odd shaped blemish, a mole with a ragged or blurred edges, spots that change color or a growth larger than a quarter inch. To find out where the clinic near Wilmington is and for an appointment, call 1-800- ACS-2345. In 1990 approximately 5000 were screened and 400 skin cancers were detected. Remember, this is a free clinic, take advantage of it.

Visiting nurse

If you are worrying about proper nutrition, have a wound that needs attention and you are unable to leave your home, or have a family member suffering from depression, need help caring for a chronically ill person, help with home therapy, prescribed by your doctor, need assistance with bathing and other personal care, call the Visiting Nurse Association of Middlesex East 617-438-3770 they will send a nurse to help you.

Craft meeting

Phyllis Hailey will be holding her first senior citizen craft meeting in preparation for the senior citizen fall fair Wednesday morning May 22 in the craft room.

Full house for adolescent workshop

"My daughter is 14 going on 35!~ She thinks she knows everything. You can't tell her anything. She gets mad and goes storming off to her room. I think teenagers should listen to their parents - after all we have lived a lot longer than they have. We do know something about some things!"

So began the adolescent workshop led by Carol Golub, Ph.D., and Michele Welch, Ph.D, from the Wilmington Family Counseling Service last week to a packed room of over 80 parents at the library. Trading vignette's that characterized adolescents and parents of adolescents, the two psychologists used touches of humor to help parents perhaps glimpse themselves in examples of timed 20-minute showers and fears of "my baby going off to college."

In a more serious vein, Dr. Welch pointed out the job of adolescents to find their own identities and to separate from family. Citing John Bradshaw, she explained how the peer group is the vehicle for helping adolescents separate from family. Thus, they can assert their independence from family but not feel all alone and cut off from the world.

Describing many adolescents as "swimming in an ocean of inadequacy," Dr. Welch encouraged parents to find at least "one small island of competence" to encourage; for example, helping a son or daughter who likes pets to join 4-H or to get a part time job at a pet store. In this way parents can help their adolescents explore different roles and build self-esteem.

Dr. Golub stressed that rules parents set should be used to "guide, instruct, or protect, not to punish, limit, and restrict." She gave an example of a curfew being set to protect teens not to restrict them by making them come home earlier than their friends. Rules that punish, limit, and restrict foster a poor self-concept and engender shame, she concluded.

Highlighting the relationship between parental control and adolescent rebellion, Dr. Golub explained, "the more space we give our kids to explore their own identities, the less they will feel they must reject our values to be their own people. The more we force them to believe as we believe, to dress as we say, to choose the college or career we think best, the more they will have to rebel if they are to finish the adolescent task of becoming their own people."

Jim Jordan, principal of the West Intermediate School that co-sponsored the workshop with the North Intermediate School, was enthusiastic about the turnout. "Obviously parents feel a real need to learn about their adolescents. We will be planning more joint programs on adolescent issues with the Wilmington Family Counseling Service next year," he explained.

Town Fathers and Voters of Wilmington,

Thank you all for your support at Town Meeting in defeating Articles 31, 34 and 35.

In doing so, you not only saved residential land, water supplies and wild life; but most important you gave us an opportunity to prove the system of Town Meeting really works for the people.

Thank you,

Kevin and Beverly Berrigan, Mrs. Angelina Covelle, Tom and Lynne Derian, Mrs. Mable Desrochers, Gennaro and Charlotte Grasso, Roger and Beth Lessard, Rita MacInnis, Charles Spinazola

Redmen roll to eighth straight

The red-hot Tewksbury High School baseball squad rolled to their eighth straight victory with a 15-1 non-league romp past Amesbury at Cooperstown, New York Sunday afternoon.

Both schools toured the Baseball Hall of Fame on a trip that was set up by officials from the respective schools during this past offseason.

The Redmen have won eight straight since dropping their first two games of the season.

Sunday Larry Rodgers pitched a seven-hitter over seven innings, walking three and striking out six. Rob McGrath paced the TMHS attack with a three-run homer.

Friday the Redmen warmed up for their trip to Cooperstown with a 7-2 victory over Wilmington, scoring six runs in the top of the seventh inning to wipe out a 2-1 Wildcat lead.

McGrath began his hitting streak with a three-run triple in the big seventh inning. McGrath had two hits and four RBI's in Friday's victory at Wilmington. McGrath had a solo homer in the first inning to give the Redmen a 1-0 lead.

John O'Reilly's double tied the game for the Wildcats in the fourth inning and the home club took a 2-1 lead before TMHS pitcher Sean Mackey picked a runner off secondbase to kill the rally.

Solid team effort sparks Padres

Senior Girls Division
Padres 10 Phillies 9

The Padres won their second game of the season with a good solid team effort.

Kelly Muse and Laurie Southmayd shared the pitching duties, with Southmayd striking out the side in the last inning.

In the sixth inning Nicole Dussault and Jenna Neale combined on the defensive play of the game when Dussault threw the ball to Neale at home to cut down what would have been the lead run.

In the bottom of the sixth rookie Jaime Forgett got an RBI single which proved to be the winning run.

The Phillies stayed close the entire game due to fine defensive plays by Nancy Pote at firstbase and Adrienne Fay at shortstop.

Pote also had a great day at the plate, going four for four with four RBI's.

Phillies 15 Expos 10

Adrienne Fay and Lindsey Currier both pitched seven thrilling innings. Fay also had three hits had 14 strikeouts for the game.

The Phillies were led by Darlene Scarfo's great catching, Nancy Pote's three hits and Jaclyn Harrison's heads-up baserunning.

The Expos were led by the superb catching and hitting of Amy O'Melia and the all-around play of Jackie Hayden. The Phillies and Expos meet again May 11.

Braves 19 Padres 12

Kristi Lyman had a fine game pitching for the Braves. Coach Mike Alonardo had the Braves playing great ball, with Jacqui Holloway at first and Stacey Gillis at second. Julie Gosse had a good night at catcher, while the Braves outfield came through with some key plays by Carolyn Hurley, Jill Branley and Jamie Rutledge.

The Padres played a tough game with Laurie Southmayd's batting skills and Jen Murray's fine pitching.

Braves 15 Expos 3

Renee Vachon pitched a great game for the Braves, as did Jackie Hayden for the Expos. Kerri Scifo played well for the Braves with two walks and one hit. Laurie Johnson, Kristi Lyman, Mary Armada and Kelly O'Donnell all played well.

Lindsay Currier's firstbase abilities took away a lot of the Braves chances as did Erin Falzone's catching.

Padres 16 Expos 6

In the first game of the season the Padres pitching seemed to be the difference, with Nicole Dussault and Jen Murray combining for the win. Laurie Southmayd led the offense with two hits and three RBI's.

The Expos were led offensively by Erin Falzone and Jackie Hayden with two hits apiece.

Phillies 19 Padres 5

Jen Mullins pitched a great game for the Phillies. Their offense was led by Melanie Johnson, Melissa Hurley and Denise Langone.

Michelle Costronovo made some key defensive plays for the winners.

The Padres were led by Nicole Dussault with two hits, and Laurie Southmayd with a hit. Kelly Muse and Jenna Neale were outstanding on defense for the Padres.

Major Softball
Cubs 10 Bluejays 9

In the exciting season opener, the Cubs edged the Bluejays. Both teams played extremely well. The Cubs were led by the fine pitching of Melissa Merrill, while Kristina Gilbert did a great job catching.

Lauren Senesi, Kristi Langone, Kristina Gilbert, Melissa Merrill, Jen Langone, Catherine Townsend, Kristen Thomas, Kerri French and Kristen Peach all contributed basehits, while Colleen Campbell, Jen Cuccinotta, Kare Langone and Maura Lynch all played great games.

The Bluejays were led by the fine pitching of Cara Cheney. Jackie Eldridge. Jill Cauldwell, Nichole Ellis, Jill Biggens, Jackie Eldridge (grandslam), Leanne Bento, Melissa Mather and Cara Cheney all contributed basehits, while Megan Graham, Rachael Shaffer, Jennifer Johnson, Colleen Fisher, Gina Pavone, Tracy Selig, Heather Scott, Tricia Kane and Kathie Holloway all played well.

Senior League
White Sox 13 Red Sox 12

The White Sox scored five runs in the bottom half of the last inning to squeeze out a win over the Red Sox.

The Red Sox had led the game from the start thanks to timely hits from Brendan Rogers, Brian Burke and Dan Kivlehan. Paul Ware played a strong game defensively.

Brent Carbone delivered a three-run double in the last inning for the White Sox, with other big hits from Jason Amrock, Steve Chappie and Mark Power. Chris Crowell helped the team on defense.

White Sox 6 Orioles 1

The White Sox beat the Orioles in a well played game by both teams. Colin Sullivan pitched five strong innings for the Sox, with Mike Alonardo helping with two well pitched innings for the save.

Tim Devlin led the Sox offense with three hits, while Jack Warford had two hits. Jason Mainini played well in the field.

The Orioles' pitching was led by Randy Johnson. Big hits were delivered by Billy Bates, David Maglio and Joe Palermo.

Good plays in the field were made by Rich Boucher at shortstop and Joe Alonardo at second base.

White Sox 7 Twins 6

In a very close game all the way, the White Sox scored one run in the last inning to beat the Twins.

The Twins got excellent pitching from Brian Gargan and Eric Jones. Ryan McNee got a big triple, with other key hits by Mike Marsi and Steve O'Neill. Mike Giordano played well in the field.

Kevin Camell pitched for the White Sox, striking out 14 batters in seven innings.

The Sox got hits from Tim Devlin, Colin Sullivan and Marc Power, and good plays in the field from Marc Trinchera and Jason Amrock.

Major League
Yankees 8 Orioles 8

The opening game of the season for the Orioles and Yankees ended in a tie to be completed when the two teams meet again.

The Yankees scored early to take a 4-0 lead until the Orioles scored one run in the fifth and three in the bottom of the sixth inning to tie it.

In the seventh the Yankees scored four runs only to fall to first game jitters with three errors in the bottom half of the seventh to allow the Orioles to tie the game.

Pitchers in the game were Ryan Haubner, Rich Gillis and Buddy Philips for the Yanks.

The Orioles countered with Keith McLaren and John Paul Civette . Hitters were John Paul Civetti (three), McLaren and Kerrigan.

Casey, Cullen and O'Donnell had one hit each for the Orioles. The Yankees hitters were Tim Gillis, Rich Gillis and Ryan Haubner with two hits each, Buddy Phillips, Jason Dango and Jeff Jenarian each had one hit.

Yankees 13 Indians 3

Haubner shutdown the tribe in a well pitched game by the Yankees' aces-Rich Gillis and Ryan Haubner.

The Indians were held to three hits and three runs. Haubner, pitching in the fourth through the sixth inning, allowed no runs on two hits.

Hitting for the Yankees were Shane Waldford (three), Tim Gillis, Rich Gillis and Ryan Haubner with two hits. Rich Gillis belted two homers. Scott Syzineki and Jason Dango each had a hit.

A great catch was made by Ryan Haubner on a line drive back to the pitcher.

Pitchers for the Indians were Matt Roux and Eric Clancy. Each Tribe pitcher struckout six Yankees. Hitters for the Indians were Clancy, Harrison and Boudreau.

Yankees 20 A's 7

After holding the A's in the top of the first the Yankees exploded for 12 runs in the bottom of the inning.

The Yankees had eight hits in the bottom half of th first but were aided by three A's errors in the inning.

Pitching for the A's were their 11 year old staff of Brian Herman, who pitched well in the first inning, but encountered control problems in the second inning, brought in Mr. Cool (Buddy Philips) who pitched the next four innings, giving up two runs on four hits, one bb and two k's.

Scott Syzinski finished up the sixth inning, giving up one hit and striking out two.

Scott was aided by a great throw by Kevin Tildsley, throwing out a runner at home, his second of the season.

Leading hitters for the Yankees were George Phillips with four hits, Richie Gillis, three hits, Brian Herman, three hits and all other Yankess collecting a hit.

Pitching for the A's were Robert Eldridge, who was hurt by deffensive lapses and Kane.

Hitting for the A's were Merry, Kane, Merriman, Ferguson and Semantis. This was a team efffort for the Yankees, with all 13 players getting hits.

Yankees 8 Twins 0

Yankee pitchers faced the minimum 18 Twin batters for a nearly perfect game.

Scott Swiezynski pitched five innings, faced only 15 batters, allowing just one hit in the fifth with seven k's and no walks.

The one base runner was eliminated when the next batter hit into a doubleplay started by Jason Dango at first.

Dango pitched the sixth inning, striking out one, allowing one runner who then was picked off second by catcher Rich Gillis.

The Yankees scored eight runs off the two Twin pitchers. The hitters for the Yankees were Ryan Haubner with two, Rich Gillis, Brian Herman, Scott Fullerton and Scott Swiezynski with one each. Leanne Harris turned in a strong defensive play at second Brian Herman made a fine play in the shortstop hole to keep a no-hitter going into the fifth.

Pitchers for the Twins were Damien DiCenso and Mack Caples. They combined for eight k's, seven bb's and six hits. The lone hit by the Twins was by Saulnier. Mark Caples made a great stop on a ball hit by Ryan Haubner.

Tewksbury Little League

White Sox rally for win

After falling behind 6-0, the White Sox rallied for three runs in the third and four runs in the fifth to beat the Tigers, 7-6 in Tewksbury Little League action last week.

The White Sox received four shutout innings of pitching from Luke Fuller and Paul Fugere to quiet theTiger bats.

The Tigers got their runs in the first two innings behind the power hitting of Matt Seagren and Tim Latham.

They threatened again in the sixth inning, but the rally was spoiled by a pickoff at thirdbase by Al Dares.

The White Sox got their runs from clutch hitting by Chris Garrasso and Jon Bombach. The White Sox record goes to 3-1, while the Tigers go to 2-3.

Girls' basketball camp August 5-9

The second annual Wakefield Girls' Basketball Camp for girls in grades five through 10 has been slated for August 5-9 at the Charbonneau Fieldhouse on Farm Street in Wakefield.

The camp features a student-teacher ration of eight to one, stop action, controlled scrimmages with on the spot coaching, experienced coaches and players from high school and college ranks, certified athletic trainer on duty at all times, individual and team instruction, daily lectures, awards for outstanding achievement and skill, tournaments, some competition, and an outstanding facility for basketball instruction.

The typical daily schedule is as follows: campers arrive and shoot 20 foul shots, 8:30 to 9 a.m.; warmup and stretching, 9 to 9:10 a.m.; skill station drills, 9:10 to 10:30 a.m.; lecture and demonstration, 10:35 to 10:50 a.m.; individual and team play with coach, 10:50 to 11:15 a.m.; fun time, relays, etc, 11:45 a.m. to noon.

The camp director will be Ed White, who is a former basketball coach in the Wakefield system, an assistant director for the Wakefield Girls' Youth Program and the director of physical education and athletes at Northeast Regional Vocational School.

The assisstant director is Fred Marshall, who is an assistant basketball coach for the Wakefield High School boys' team, an assistant director of the Wakefield Girls' Youth Program and a former basketball coach at Springfield College and the United States Marine Corps.

"Motivation is the key to learning," said White. "Our staff utilizes positive motivation as its' basic principle."

"Our staff realizes that patience, tolerance and a sense of humor are essential ingredients for a harmonious learning environment," said Marshall. "Children do not learn under stress. They learn while having fun."

The objectives of the camp are to provide each camper with a positive basketball experience, improve the basic fundamentals of individual and team play, develop new basketball skills, develop in each camper a better understanding of the fundamentals and rules of the game, increase the self confidence of each camper, encourage interaction between students and coaches, offer a diversified experience-both on and off the court-and make friends and have fun. The tuition for the camp is $65.00.

A non-refundable deposit of $30.00 must accompany each application. The balance ($35.00) is due July 1. Two or more participants from the same family will be entitled to a $10.00 discount.

Enrollment is limited, so prospective campers should enroll early. For more information and an application, call Ed White at 246-0227.

THE INSIDE STORY

At first glance, one might think that hair shafts are perfectly round. However, they are not. There is an exterior cuticle that protects and inner cortex. Under a microscope, the cuticle resembles overlapping layers of fish scales. The cortex contains chemicals that determine the formation of hair. Depending on the way these chemicals are bonded together, hair may be straight, wavy, curly, or a combination. The cortex also contains the pigment molecules, called melanin, that dictate the hair's color. If these granules are medium in size and are evenly distributed, the hair will be red. Lots of large granules distributed unevenly result in brown hair shafts. Fewer, smaller granules create the blond shades.

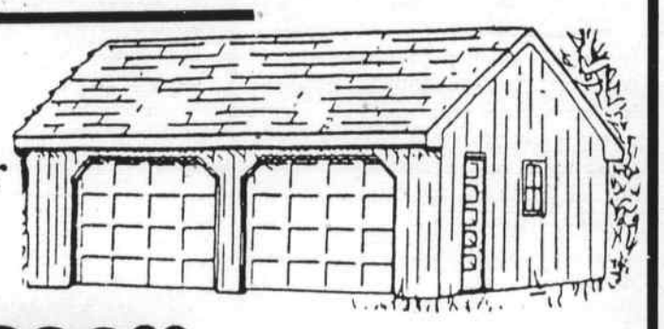

Today's hair colors look more natural as coloring is used more to highlight and accent than to alter one's total look. Time to trash fly fishing myths

by Bill Conlon

With trout streams in full frenzy, and spring vegetation still low, you simply won't have a better time to try your hand at fly fishing.

However, fly fishing is full of old misconceptions and myths. We'll take time to blow up a few.

Fly Fishing is Expensive - Nah. If I can afford fly-fishing, anybody can. Your big cost is the initial investment, and after that you cruise along even cheaper than you can with most other types of fishing.

Fly Fishing is Hard to Do - Nah. I'm not that coordinated, but I can do it. Casting is a trick -- almost an art -- but not all that hard to learn.

Fly Fishing is Complex - Sometimes, but it's as complex as you're willing to make it. Playing "match the hatch" by tying new flies on the shoreline is complex. Flipping cork bugs toward a lily pad is simple.

You Have to Smoke a Pipe - Only if you want to achieve "The Look" of fly-fishing. Hey, if I can fly-fish in a flannel shirt and baseball cap, it's plain you don't have to try for the "GQ Cover Boy" look to have plenty of fun light-lining.

To get started in fly fishing, plan on spending about $100 for start-up gear, but that includes everything. Your best bet is to buy a complete rod-reel-line package, ready-made, as it'll be "balanced" by the maker. Using a line that is too heavy for the rod is a pain, and so is a reel which feels like a window weight at the end of your willow stick. Buy the package and you're covered.

Fly line is quite heavy, so you'll need a tippet ("leader) for tying your fly line to your hook. You simply can't make a mosquito look tempting if it's tied to a clothes line, and your leader is the connector. Store-bought leaders cost pennies, and they've tapered. The butt end is heavy while the "fishy" end is hair-thin. Nifty stuff, really.

Before you destroy a brand new leader, however, take your rig into the yard for some casting practice. The bare end of the heavy fly-line will do nicely for practice. After all, it's the weight of the line that you'll be casting, not the weight of the fly and leader. The fly reel just holds line -- no other function.

Casting is done by waving the rod back and forth, adding distance to your cast with each wave of the stick. The back-cast adds distance, while your forward motion should see the line landing straight as a stick.

A common fly casting mistake is to put too much motion on the rod. (This one bit of advice saved me months of aggravation.) A limited motion (say from "11 o'clock to 1 o'clock") works much better than a long wave of the stick (such as "9 o'clock to 3 o'clock").

And slow down. Waving the rod too fast is almost as bad as waving it too far. If the end of the line cracks like a whip you're putting too much motion to the line. Nice and easy, with short strokes. Piece 'a' cake.

Another cast worth learning is the roll cast, which is a life saver in the tight brush. With the line already on the water, you simply raise the rod tip straight up, then snap it back down again. In theory, at least, the loop of line will roll smoothly over the water and plunk your offering right back where it was before you started the roll cast. But it takes a bit of practice to roll cast well.

Oh, buy boots, too. Spring for the chest waters, since you'll need to go as deep as possible to get away from all the brush along the shore. Hip boots do the trick, in a limited way, but chest waders are much better. A vest rounds out The Look, but you will learn the value of a vest when you try to fit everything into your shirt pocket.

With a basic grip on casting, it's time to tie on a leader, grab a box of flies, and head for the water. Be advised that a BOX of flies will be needed. You'll lose plenty of flies, guaranteed and most will get stuck too high up in a tree to retrieve. An extra fly or 12 makes sense.

But don't bother with trout just yet. If you need practice, there's nothing better for training than to catch kibbies, good ol' sunfish.

Kibbies love to eat bugs, so they'll nail whatever fly you put in front of them -- any size, any pattern, any day. Besides, kibbies live shallow, making it easy to wade along the shore, far from the trees. For their size, they also put up a great fight, and they'll entertain you all day.

Cork bugs can be difficult to cast, since they catch the wind, but they are easy to see when they get kissed. You make the call. Bugs and flies work equally well on kibbies.

Landing a fish with a fly rod isn't as easy as you might think. Leaders are awfully delicate, about 2-pound test, so you can't "horse" them in. You need to control your line with both hands, which leaves you one hand short for controlling the rod.

What you do is simple: With your "rod" hand, use one finger to keep the line under control. Use your other hand for hauling in the line on the retrieve, then pin the line in place with that reserve finger. Oh, and be prepared to surrender some line if the fish surges. Leaders snap easily.

After kibbie training, you're set for the trout stream. Almost.

You'll need to get acquainted with fly fishing on moving water, which is not all that easy. Picture it.

You need to know precisely what fly pattern the trout want to eat today, and there are hundreds of fly patterns. Trout are very narrow-minded, and the fly they clobbered yesterday might be utterly ignored today. They are finicky.

And finally, most trout waters are full of brush and narrow as a coat closet. Fishing the edge of a pond is a "walk in the park" compared to waving a fly-stick in a briar patch.

But forget the downers. If you've always wanted to give fly-fishing a try, just do it. Hopefully this little primer will get you started. Enjoy!

Horn Pond, in Woburn

Horn Pond, Woburn (102 acres) one-half mile S of Woburn Center, may be reached from Pond Street, with intersects Route 38 just north of the Winchester - Woburn line. A paved boat ramp is located at the public access. Horn Pond is stocked with trout, and a 45 foot maximum depth lets trout survive summer. Vegetation is found only in shallow coves and shorelines, and water is brown in color. A 1982 survey of fish showed a heavy dominance of yellow perch, but largemouth bass come into prominence in summer.

Wilmington Youth Soccer

McLaren earns second shutout

Derek McLaren earned his second shutout of the season with a 4-0 win over Westford in Wilmington Youth Soccer League action last week.

Throughout the game Derek was called upon to play solid goal. John Betts and David Trueria led the backfield support with a strong and steady showing by Jeffrey Cannon.

Ryan Jensen, Jonathan Elia and the rest of the backfield kept the ball supplied up to the forwards.

Jimmy Rourke led the Wilmington scoring rush with the first goal of the game.

A.J. Mitzan came back into the game after being hurt to bring the ball upfield with a cross pass to Joey Delaney. Joey finished the play with a driving goal.

Michael Halas worked the ball up to the net and passed over to Andy Meyers who scored.,

After the half the team came back even stronger as the forwards surged ahead with strong team play.

Martin D'Angelo had several shots on net only to be blocked by Westford. The fourth goal came from an A.J. Mitzan pass to Joey Delaney for the winning goal.

Wilmington travelled to Winchester to win its' fifth game of the season.

Jimmy Rourke started in Wilmington's net. Jimmy was called upon to make many excellent saves.

Derek McLaren and Jeffrey Cannon displayed their mastery of the backfield. John Betts, although a defenseman, had several near misses on net.

David Truiera, Michael Halas and Andy Meyers kept the pressure on Winchester's goalie by showing their skills in passing, but were unable to capitalize. The first half ended scoreless.

Derek McLaren went into the net for the second half and maintained the shutout.

Ryan Jensen and Jonathan Elia had strong defensive games. Jimmy Rourke came back into the game as a forward, surging with Martin D'Angelo and Andy Meyers only to be thwarted by Winchester's goalie.

A.J. Mitzan brought the ball upfield to blast a shot on net and score the only goal of the game in the 1-0 victory.

John Betts, David Trueria, Jeffrey Cannon and Derek McLaren all played well in the victory.

Boys' under 10 (II)

The Wilmington boys' under 10 (II) traveling soccer team combined a tenacious defense with constant offensive pressure to defeat a stubborn Melrose team, 1-0 on Saturday, May 5 at the Shawsheen Field in Wilmington.

Five minutes into the game Craig Irwin took a nice lead pass from Matt Senesi in for a breakaway goal. As it turned out, that was to be all the scoring for either team, although there were many near misses by both sides during this exciting contest.

Goaltending was an important factor, as both Josh Michaud in the first half and Matt Jones in the second made several key saves, combining for a shutout in their best game of the year.

The defense, anchored by Matt Cyne, performed well, particularly in the final moments when he and Eric Bromley stood fast against a threatening Melrose squad.

Danny Sweet and Eric Swiezynski did double duty, playing both offensive and defensive positions, while forwards Joe Kane and Chris Maglio played aggressively in the Wilmington end.

Wimington's record now stands at 3-2 as the team takes to the road to face Winchester this week.

Boys' under 10 (III)

The opening game was against a bigger, stronger team from Medford. Despite the fact that the Medford squad totally dominated the two games played last fall, the local team was still confident.

The Medford boys were able to blast three goals home in the first half and appeared to be cruising to victory.

However, the boys never gave up. They made their passes a bit crisper, their kicks a little stronger and their defense more solid.

Midway through the period, Kevin Forgett broke loose for a goal to make the score 3-1. A few minutes later William Kent tucked the ball neatly into the corner of the net to cut the score to 3-2.

Unfortunately, time soon expired, but not before the boys had demonstrated considerable improvement from the fall season.

Goaltender Jeff Coughlan and fullbacks Dan Keating, Paul Casely and Mark Rappoli shutout the mighty Medford team for the entire second half.

As luck would have it, the next opponent was an even stronger team from Wakefield, but the Wilmington boys fought hard.

Despite strong offensive moves by Kyle Murphy and Evan O'Neil, the team was unable to score in the first half. The Wakefield team was also without a goal at halftime.

However, during the second half the stronger opponent began to take control. Notwithstanding the strong first half effort, the team lost to Wakefield, 4-0.

Rick said he'd be happy to lend some chow support to future S.W.E.A.T. functions. Welcome!

Speaking of S.W.E.A.T., there's the "Son of Great Race" coming up this Saturday morning. The canoe race runs from Great Roads Shopping Plaza in Bedford to Cranberry's Restaurant, at the confluence of the Shawsheen and Merrimack Rivers. (There used to be a raced called "the Great Race to the Sea" which ran from the Knights of Columbus in Tewksbury to Newburyport, but S.W.E.A.T. opted for the Shawsheen-only format.) A mandatory safety briefing will be held Friday, May 10, at 7 p.m. at Tewksbury Rod & Gun Club, and the race begins at 8 a.m. Saturday.

There will be a public clean-up of Lubber's Brook on Saturday, May 11, from 9 a.m. to noon, with the Wilmington Kiwanis Club leading the way. The clean-up will begin at Route 62 (in North Wilmington) and goes upstream from there. The more folks who show up, the better the job done. Plan on an amusing Saturday morning on Lubber's, but dress for a wet, dirty day. If you've talked about the environment, now is your chance to actually do something good about it. Be there.

Seventh graders earn cable award

Continental Cablevision has announced that a seventh grade class at the West Intermediate School will be awarded a certificate of achievement in the cable operator's "Kids for Conservation" educational competition for the best student-created TV public service message promoting conservation, environmental or wildlife preservation.

The seventh graders' entry in the competition is a TV spot that chronicles for cable viewers their 1991 school conservation project, the planting of a naturaal "fence" of pine trees behind the school.

The students were guided in the cable TV educational project by West Intermedaite teacher William Finer, who also serves as camcorder activity adviser.

The TV spot conceptualized and written by the Wilmington seventh graders, like all those in the "Kids for Conservation" competition, will be produced by Continental Cablevision's community programming staff and aired on local cable in Wilmington, Billerica, Burlington, Reading, Stoneham, Winchester and Woburn. The students will have starrring roles in their own production.

In addition, all the students and teachers who participated will be guests of Continental and MetroParks Zoos at a special party to premiere the TV spots at Franklin Park Zoo in Boston on June 1, Conservation Day at zoos nationwide.

"We were very impressed with the creativity and sophistication of the West Intermediate School project and all the other entries in our 'Kids for Conservation' competition," said Michael Leone, Continental Cablevision Community Relations Manager.

"The real purpose of this project was to help teachers get their students thinking critically and constructively about environmental and conservation issues, and to sharpen their reading, writing and creative thinking skills," said Dr. Mark Goldstein, Executive Director of the Boston Zoological Society.

"All the teachers involved said their students learned a lot and had fun doing it, and that's what this was all about," Leone said.

obituaries

Chester Barkhouse

Chester R. Barkhouse, 74 a long term resident of Tewksbury Hospital died Wednesday May 1, 1991 at a Lowell hospital.

He was born February 1, 1916, in Five Islands, Nova Scotia, the son of the late James and the late Seretha (Lake) Barkhouse. He worked thorughout his life as a painting contractor.

He leaves many friends and caregivers at the Tewksbury Hospital.

His funeral mass was held Saturday, May 4 in St. William's Church. Burial followed in Tewksbury Cemetery. Arrangements were through the Tewksbury Funeral Home.

Alvilda Gagne

Mrs. Alvilda Marie (Johnson) Gagne, 87, died Tuesday, April 30, 1991 at a Lowell hospital following a brief illness. She was the wife of the late Allyre Gagne.

She was born in Berlin, N.H. July 23, 1903, the daughter of the late James and Mary Johnson. In 1975, she retired from the Ritz-Carlton in Boston after 25 years of service as a clerk.

Mrs. Gagne is survived by two sons, Robert of Lincoln, N.H. and Bennett of Lowell; two daughters, Mrs. Robert (Dorothy) Reynolds of Polk City, Fla., and Mrs. Richard (Shirley) Sparks of Wilmington with whom she made her home; 14 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

She was also the mother of the late Regina Albert.

A funeral service was held Thursday, May 2, in the Tewksbury Funeral Home. Cremation at Linwood Cemetery. Memorial contributions to the Grace Bible Church, 517 Methuen St., Dracut, MA 01826 will be appreciated. Arrangements were through the Tewksbury Funeral Home.

backyard gardening

by Hugh Wiberg

Excerpting from a letter received this week postmarked in Tewksbury, ..."I am sorry that a conflict in my work schedule prevented me from attending your presentation in March to the Tewksbury Garden Club. Had I been there I would have asked you to explain to me the three numbers we see on fertilizer bags. (example, 10-10-10). I have asked the people at the garden center but they can't seem to explain this in simple laymen's language."

This (early May) is an appropriate time to briefly review fertilizers. According to my employer (Mahoney's Nursery in Winchester) more bags of plant food are sold this month than in all of the other months combined.

The three numbers refer to, in order,nitrogen, phosphorus (bone meal) and potash. The numbers indicate the percentages of each of the three elements, by weight, contained in the bag. These three elements are the key ingredients required in our soils to produce healthy, vigorous plants.

Nitrogen is needed for all stages of plant growth. It is rapidly depleted and thus must be replaced periodically by adding manure, fish emulsion, or commercially prepared fertilizers. Signs of nitrogen deficiency include slow growth and smaller than normal leaves. Because nitrogen is so soluble, a nitrogen deficiency can occur quickly in light or sandy soils where more leaching will occur.

Phosphorus strengthens the plants stem and root systems while increasing the rate of crop maturity. It also helps to build resistance to pests and diseases. Most importantly, it is necessary for proper fruiting, flowering and seed formation. A Phosphorus deficiency will often occur in acid soils, also in cold and wet soils. Phosphorus is less soluble in cold soil, (below 50 degrees) another reason to hold off planting tomatoes, peppers, cukes and squash until later in May.

Potassium, or potash, is required for the formation of sugars, starches, and proteins in plants. It is needed for the action of certain enzymes. Root crops especially are dependent on an adequate supply of potassium for proper development. Where there is a shortage of potassium in the soil, the lower leaves of your plants may be a greenish gray color, and will often show a marginal yellowing or mottling.

For most flower and vegetable gardens, the best commercial fertilizer will have the numbers 5-10-5, with the emphasis being on phosphorus to encourage strong young root systems. The "rule of thumb" rate of application is five pounds per hundred square feet (an area roughly 10 feet by 10 feet.) Scratched evenly into the top inch or two of the soil. This application should be repeated every four to six weeks through August.

I like to use Miracle Grow water soluble fertilizer in my vegetable garden because it is so convenient to use with Stern's hose end sprayer attachment. Not only does this dispenser automatically mix and disperse the fertilizer at the required strength, but Miracle Grow also contains the right amounts of several necessary trace elements, including calcium, boron, iron and magnesium. Be careful with your applications though - it is easy to apply too much to your plants and soil. I like to give each spot in the garden a 30 second dousing, repeated every other weekend through the summer.

Of course good old stable manure, either fresh from the farm or purchased in 40 pound bags from the garden store, is hard to beat. Manure meters the fertilizer elements slowly into the soil and further acts as a good moisture retention agent during the heat of summer.

For those readers who may be interested this writer will be Dave Maynard's guest this Sunday (May 12) at 11:30 a.m. on WBZ radio. Subject? (what else?) vegetables and fruit and nut trees.

Civil Action
Middlesex, ss. No. 158624

Stephen Bonugli, Trustee of the Philip Road Trust Plaintiff(s) vs.
Morris Kovalefsky, also known as Morris Kovolesky, also known as Morris Roviskey, his heirs, devisees or legal representatives Defendant(s)

TO: Morris Kovalefsky, also known as Morris Kovolesky, also known as Morris Roviskey, of Stoughton, Norfolk County, and said Commonwealth, or his heirs, devisees or legal representatives.

You are hereby notified that a complaint has been filed by the above named plaintiff(s) in which you are named as an interested party. This complaint concerns:

An action by the plaintiff to establish his title by adverse possession to a certain parcel of land located at the corner of Salem Street and Philips Road (formerly known as Pine Road) in Tewksbury, Middlesex County, and said Commonwealth, being more particularly shown as Lots 335, 336, 337 and 338 on a plan entitled "Plan of land owned by Pietro Bonugli, in Tewksbury," dated May 1908 and recorded with the Middlesex North District Registry of Deeds in Book of Plans 27, Plan 92; the plaintiff alleges that his title is clouded by a scrivener's error in a deed dated April 7, 1913 and recorded with said Deeds in Book 502, Page 386, in that, said Deed recites that the consideration was paid by Morris Roviskey, while the grantee clause names Morris Kovalefsky; additionally, the plaintiff alleges that a notice by the collector of taxes for the Town of Tewksbury offering certain lots for sale by public auction for non-payment of taxes and recorded with said Deeds in Book 580, Page 218, through scrivener's error recited Lots 335-328, inclusive, instead of Lots 335-338 inclusive, those owned by the defendant; the plaintiff seeks a judgment that he holds his title free of any rights of the defendant, his heirs, successor or legal representatives.

This complaint may be examined at the Land Court, Boston, Massachusetts, or a copy obtained from plaintiff(s) attorney.

If you intend to make any defense, you are hereby required to serve upon plaintiff(s) attorney, Michael J. Ring, Esquire, whose address is 2400 Massachusetts Avenue Cambridge, MA 02140, an answer to the complaint on or before the seventeenth day of June, the return day hereof, and a copy thereof must be filed in this Court on or before said day.

If you fail to do so, judgment by default will be taken against you for the relief demanded in the complaint. Unless otherwise provided by Rule 13 (a), your answer must state as a counterclaim any claim which you may have against the plaintiff(s) which arises out of the transaction or occurrence that is the subject matter of the plaintiff(s) claim or you will thereafter be barred from making such claim in any other action.

It is ORDERED that notice be given by publishing a copy of this order one time in the Town Crier, a newspaper published in the County of Middlesex, one month at least before the seventeenth day of June.

Witness, JOHN E. FENTON, JR., CHIEF JUSTICE, of our Land Court, the second day of May, 1991.

The following described premises in Forest Terrace Condominium in Tewksbury, Middlesex County, MA, a condominium established pursuant to Massachusetts General Laws, Chapter 183A, by a Master Deed dated March 31, 1986, recorded with Middlesex North District Registry of Deeds at Book 3414, Page 151 to wit, Unit No. 109 in the Phase 1 Building, the address of which is 2480 Main Street, Tewksbury, MA 01876.

Said Unit is also shown on the Floor Plans of said Forest Terrace Condominium and the building in which the Unit is located is shown on the Site Plan of said Forest Terrace Condominium all of which plans were filed contemporaneously with aforesaid Master Deed with Middlesex North District Registry of Deeds collectively at Plan Book 152, Plans Nos. 146 and 147.

Said Unit is conveyed as built, together with:

(1) an undivided 4.06 percent interest in the Common Areas and Facilities of the property attributable to said Unit and as shown in Appendix B of said Master Deed;

(2) an exclusive right to use those areas designated as Limited Common Areas, if any, pursuant to the provisions of said Master Deed;

(3) a non-exclusive easement for structural support and for the continuous of all encroachments by the Unit on any other units or Common Areas in Forest Terrace Condominium, all as more particularly set forth in Section 13. of said Master Deed;

(4) an easement in common with owners of other units to use any part or parts of the Common Area, which are located in any of the other units or elsewhere on or in Forest Terrace Condominium, including, but not by way of limitation, same as are described in Section 5. of the Master Deed.

This conveyance is subject to:

(1) a non-exclusive easement in favor of other units and Common Areas in Forest Terrace Condominium for structural support and for the continuance of all encroachments of such other units and Common Area in the Unit, all as more particularly provided in Section 13. of the Master Deed.

(2) exclusive rights in favor of the owners of any units to use portions of Forest Terrace Condominium, which are designated as Limited Common Areas as provided in said Master Deed.

(3) the provisions of the Master Deed, Association Bylaws and Rules, recorded with Middlesex North District Registry of Deeds, at Book 3414, Page 151, and the Site Plan and Floor Plans for Forest Terrace condominium recorded contemporaneously with and as a part of said Master Deed (Plan Book 152, Plan Nos. 146 and 147) at said Middlesex North Registry of Deeds and may be further amended from time to time, by instrument or instruments executed pursuant to the provisions of said Master Deed and/or said Massachusetts General Laws Chapter 183A, and recorded with Middlesex North District Registry of Deeds, all of which, including thereto if any, shall constitute covenants running with the land which shall be binding upon any and all persons having at any time any interest or estate to the Unit herein;

(4) all the restrictions on the use of said Unit as are more particularly set forth in other provisions of the aforesaid Master Deed, including but not limited to Section 8. thereof.

There is excepted from the Unit any Common Area lying therein, all as provided in said Master Deed, and the within conveyed premises are subject to and have the benefit of, insofar as the same may be now in force and applicable, easements as set forth in instruments recorded with Middlesex North District Registry of Deeds and as set out in Appendix A of said Master Deed, as amended, if any.

Subject to reservations and rights as more particularly set forth in the Master Deed Section 11 as described in deed from Peter C. DeGennaro, et al, Trustees to Elizabeth Rebecsek dated May 22, 1986 and recorded in Middlesex North Registry of Deeds in Book 3492, Page 257.

Being the same premises as conveyed to mortgagor corporation by deed of Elizabeth Rebecsek to be recorded in Middlesex North Registry of Deeds herewith.

The premises will be sold subject to and with the benefit of all rights, restrictions, easements, improvements, outstanding tax titles, municipal or other public taxes, assessments, betterments, liens or claims in the nature of liens and existing encumbrances of record created prior to the mortgage, or entitled to precedence over the mortgage, if any there be, insofar as the same are still in force and applicable to the premises.

Specifically and without limitation the premises will be sold subject to and with the benefit of: (a) the provisions of Massachusetts General Laws, Chapter 183A, as it may be amended from time to time; (b) the provisions of the Master Deed creating Forest Terrace Condominium, Association Bylaws and Rules dated March 31, 1986, recorded at said Registry of Deeds in Book 3414, Page 151, as amended; (d) all matters announced at the sale.

Morel mushrooms grow in May

by Capt. Larz Neilson

As a rule of thumb, one can say that when the violets first appear in early May it is time to look around and see of there are any morels growing, somewhere in the neighboring fields or woodlands. Morels are Sponge Mushrooms, and one of the best tasting mushrooms to be found in New England. They are not very large in size.

In the past 10 years Larz has found morels every year, amidst the lilac bushes, in the blackberries, in the area of the lawn, under oak trees, etc., but never in prolific amounts. Larz has always written of his finds, so that readers in Wilmington and Tewksbury find some, too.

Last year Ann Berghaus of 32 Chestnut Street, Wilmington found some which were six and a quarter inches tall. They were the biggest that this writer has ever seen. This year there are more morels at the Berghaus home, which this writer is going to inspect about the middle of May. The time to pick them will probably be a week after that.

Janet Duggan of Westdale Avenue, Wilmington was another lady who found morels two years in succession, but that was a few years ago. No one in Tewksbury has ever reported morels for two years in succession.

Most, but not all mushrooms have a head which is shaped like an umbrella. The morel has one that is like a cone, or, one could say, like a dunce cap with ridges. If any reader finds some and wants proof before picking, the reader can call Larz.

Glad to do the favor.

Here's Dicky

The weather was just fine — indoors — at the Abundant Life Christian School in Wilmington when Channel 5 weather prognosticator Dick Albert visited recently.

Dick Albert visits local school

Dick Albert came to the Abundant Life Christian School and Learning Center (ALCS) in Wilmington, February 1, as part of the Parent Fellowship program. The children played weather games. Some of the children were the lightning sounds and others were thunder, wind and rain. The science of weather was made to be enjoyable for the children instead of book and classroom routine. A good time was had by all and Dick gave all the children "Albert-casters" so they could see the effects of the weather changes by watching the colored dot.

Parent Fellowship Enrichment program encompasses many different areas of science and art and brings varied programs to the children monthly. Other special events included a visit from Slim Goodbody, Mass Energy Van, the World of Snakes as well as a visit to the Aquarium.

Coming this month will be a trip to Boston to see Harriet the Spy. Also a visit from New England Tidepool at the school March 12. Abundant Life Christian School is dedicated to the education and development of the whole child by education for the mind, body and spirit. Applications are currently being accepted for the 1991-1992 academic year. Call (508) 657-8710 for further information.

Support group seeks Desert Storm names

The Shawsheen Tech Desert Storm Support Group is looking for names of individuals from five area towns who have been involved in Operation Desert Storm.

According to Kenneth Buffum, chairperson, the organization was formed to be a "regional support group for the five towns." Twelve Shawsheen Tech graduates are now in the military and involved in Desert Storm.

The group is seeking additional names, not necessarily Shawsheen graduates, to invite members members of their families to the student operated restaurant, the Ram's Head, as guests of the support group. Family members can also apply for funds the group has raised for emergency payment for such things as utilities, for example.

More than $2000 was raised at a flea market in March. If the funds are not distributed to families of Desert Storm participants, they probably will be donated to a military organization.

People with names to add to the support list, or questions about the emergency fund should call 671-0968 or 667-2111.

The group also plans a welcome home gala event in October, probably at Shriners' Auditorium, with local military personnel and military bigwigs as guests at a dinner dance.

Committee members include Kenneth Buffum, chairperson, Tom O'Sullivan, Maria Rourke, Charles Fleming, Al Mazman and Donald Ayer.

Suspects sought in abductions, rape

by Bill Conlon

Mothers should take extra caution with their children lately, and boys in particular should be watched.

Tewksbury police, in conjunction with surrounding towns, are investigating an alleged kidnapping and homosexual rape on April 30 of a 13-year-old Lowell youth, and an apparent abduction attempt earlier this month of a 6-year-old Tewksbury boy.

According to a report issued by Tewksbury Detective Sgt. Dennis Peterson, a 13-year-old youth was allegedly abducted at knife-point on Alton Street in Lowell, was blindfolded, then had his hands tied behind his back. The victim allegedly was driven to a nearby town, then taken through a broken screen door to an upstairs, locked apartment, where the sexual assault was alleged to have occurred.

What grabbed the attention of the Tewksbury police, however, was the victim's statement that the suspect drove past a McDonald's along the way. Since the McDonald's was seen through a passenger window, Sgt. Peterson believes the car may have been headed south on Route 38 into Tewksbury. The vehicle was described as a late-model Mercury or Ford 4-door, color maroon.

The suspect was described as a white male, 5-foot-8, about 195 pounds, age 35-45, with graying hair and mustache. Since a key was used to enter the upstairs room or apartment, Peterson believes that a rented room might be involved.

The May 5 incident in Tewksbury involved a 6-year-old boy who said that around 2 p.m., a dented yellow station wagon pulled up beside him on Kendall Road, with two white males inside. The boy related how the passenger asked him to come closer, then offered him candy. The boy yelled "No!" and fled home.

The car then took off, believed to be headed toward Andover.

The boy was able to describe the passenger as a white male, age 25-30, with reddish hair and in need of a shave. The passenger was said to have had a bad complexion, and the windshield of the car might have been broken.

Information should be directed to Tewksbury police at 851-7373.

Chris Ward honored

Chris Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ward of Wilmington, was recently commended for his outstanding academic commitment and effort by the English Department at Lawrence Academy, a private co-educational college preparatory high school in Groton.

Chris, a senior at Lawrence, received his commendation from Terry Murbach, chairman of the English Department, during the Academy's academic honors ceremony on April 4. In commenting on Chris's work in British Literature and Journalism, he noted his effort, commitment and dedication to not only improve, but also to get the most possible out of the course.

In addition to his certificate of commendation, Chris received a pin awarded by the Academy in recognition of academic excellence.

Lung lecture at Lahey Clinic

The Lahey Clinic and the American Lung Association of Middlesex County will present a lecture for those with chronic lung disease on "The Respiratory System," Tuesday, May 21.

The lecture, scheduled for noon in the 7-Central Conference Room at the Lahey Clinic, 41 Mall Road, Burlington, will be delivered by John F.Beamis, Jr., M.D., head of the section of pulmonary medicine at the Lahey Clinic. It is the first in a series of 18 free lectures on pulmonary rehabilitation for individuals and families of individuals with chronic lung problems.

Facts About Cataracts

• Cataracts are a clouding of the normally clear and transparent lens of the eye. This clouding causes blurred vision.

• Cataracts do not spread from one eye to the other. They develop over years and are caused by a change in the chemistry of the eye, not by eye strain or overuse.

• Most cataracts are not visible to outside observers. Diagnosis can be made only by an ophthalmologist.

• Cataracts cannot be prevented, but they need not lead to blindness. Early detection can restore sight in nearly 90 percent of cases.

• There are a variety of surgical techniques used to extract cataracts. All can be done on an outpatient basis.

• After surgery, vision is often restored in as little as two to three weeks.

• Cataracts are not limited to the elderly. Diabetic individuals and retarded children can develop cataracts, as can persons who suffer trauma to the head or eye.

• To reduce the risk of cataracts, or any eye disease, see an ophthalmologist regularly.

HARBOR PILOT GEORGE F. OHLSON of Wakefield has spent many years escorting huge oil tankers and the like around Boston Harbor and tells of the challenges of his profession in today's story. He has been on Boston Harbor since 1955.

Wakefield's George F. Ohlson

Boston Harbor Pilot since '55

By JAMES GOLDSMITH

You're a what? George F. Ohlson, a trim, energetic man, gets used to explaining what he does for a living and never tires of the "crazy hours" and risks which he gladly accepts as part of his profession - Boston Harbor pilot.

Ohlson, who graduated from Charlestown High School in 1954, grew up "as an East Boston kid" who was drawn to the sea much like the Gloucester fishermen were in the first quarter of the 17th century when that fishing port was settled. George's dad used to bring his son to the National Dock, East Boston, where he did laundry for Boston's two pilot boats - Pilot & Roseway. In retrospect and with warm reminiscence, Ohlson says his dad "felt that this was quite a life and he definitely wanted to be a pilot. He worked on towboats around the harbor as a boy."

Meanwhile young George graduated from high school and needed a job. Somehow he felt the independence, adventure and allure of the harbor pilot's job would suit him. Before long summer's symphony of colors and shapes came alive in Boston Harbor. They moved to the music of the wind and sea. The drama and excitement of commercial ships and pleasure boats crisscrossing on a summer's day would soon move to another beat and baton - that of George Ohlson's.

During his first year the young apprentice cut his teeth on the ropes of experience aboard Boston's two pilot boats - Thomas Knox, a 50-footer which carries Boston Harbor pilots to their duty stations in summer and the Boston Pilot, a 70-foot boat which easily rides winter's chops and swells.

The 5'9" mariner, who never completely got his sea legs, became an apprentice harbor pilot in January 1955 and spent the next nine years learning how to read nautical charts and complex navigational instruments including radar, gyroscopes and depth finders. This isn't a profession for the faint of heart. It takes belief in yourself and the ability to make sound judgments that affect the lives and safety of men aboard HUGE oil tankers and container ships that visit Boston regularly.

ROVING — dan ferullo

Last Thursday evening, at approximately seven-thirty, Anthony DiCarlo (names in this column have been changed) returned home from work. He had been looking forward to arriving home; an old friend, a woman by the name of Cynthia McNally, was waiting for him. She hadn't been feeling well that day, and he was anxious to see how she was faring. He was also anticipating the opportunity, since they hadn't seen each other in several months, to catch up on each other's lives.

Anthony unlocked the back door and entered his house. It seemed eerily quiet; he'd hoped that Cynthia had seen his car pull in the driveway, and would be

About the towns

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

WINCHESTER - The Winchester High Class of 1941 will hold its 50th reunion on Saturday evening, October 19th at the Sheraton Lexington Inn.

Committee members are still looking for Barbara Collins; Carlotta Garrison; Elsie Grey; Ray Harris; Kenneth M. Hills, Jr.; Charlotte Irwin; Kenneth Joyce; Mae Mulhern; John Penniman; Jean Thumin; and Barbara Wright.

If you can help locate these class members or want more info', contact Maxine Lybeck Kajander at (617)729-2968 or Creighton Horn at (617)729-5347.

NORTH READING - Cramped, inadequate and open to the public 41 hours a week. Brand new, splendid, to be open 33 hours a week. Such could be the situation in September when North Reading's $3 million library opens to the public - a public which, North Reading Town Meeting voted, will have to be content with less.

By a vote of 81 to 47, Town Meeting refused to take $16,065 from its Free Cash account to pay the salaries of the three part-time library technicians needed in September to keep the library operating at its current level. As it is, the library is closed all day Monday, and open until 8 p.m. only three nights a week.

JACK SHEEHAN OF BURLINGTON (l), Auction Manager Edythe C. Baker (center) and Jay Sullivan of Wilmington (r) meet to discuss the 1991 WGBH/Channel 2 Auction. Sheehan and Sullivan are Bid Taker Chairmen of Auction Week. The Auction is the major fundraising event at WGBH. "It's Showtime" is this year's theme airing May 31 to June 8.

WILMINGTON - Four Wilmington organizations - the American Legion, Knights of Columbus, Marine Corps League, and Veterans of Foreign Wars - have joined together to welcome home Operation Desert Storm troops, and the Wilmington Board of Selectmen has appointed Veterans' Agent Paul Farrell chairman of "A Hero's Welcome."

The group will hold a dance on May 11th at Villanova Hall, the dance to be a welcoming event and fundraiser. Memorial Day will feature a parade with special tribute to returnees, followed by an open house at the VFW.

State Treasurer Joe Malone is managing the "A Hero's Welcome" fund which will provide a $500 bonus for service personnel who served in the Persian Gulf and $300 for those who served elsewhere in the armed forces during the Gulf crisis. "Hero's Welcome Home" funds have also been established at the Bay Bank and the Commercial Bank and Trust.

For more info', contact George Hooper, James Hanley, Jim O'Leary, and Dave Trane.

STONEHAM - The Stoneham Recycling Committee's Cheryl Werlin recently spoke at the Stoneham Public Library about the recycling program: history, future options, how it works, and how to prepare materials for it.

Refreshments were served, and in the spirit of recycling, attendees were asked to B.Y.O.M. - "Bring Your Own Mug."

SENIOR CENTER - Volunteers are available at the Reading Elder Services Office on the first and third Wednesdays of each month from 10 to 11 a.m. to answer questions about health insurance or consumer concerns. Appointments are not necessary.

For more info', call Elder Services Director Lois Bond at (617)942-0500.

Harbor Pilot

from S-1

While airline pilots land and take off on runways that are pretty much the same around the world, harbor pilots navigate in harbors which are as different as the crews aboard their multi-national ships. Ohlson's "beat" starts outside the entrance to Boston Harbor, just beyond Graves Light. It's his job to board incoming oil tankers and container ships and advise ship captains how to safely berth in the inner harbor some 12-14 miles inland.

When asked "What is the most exciting and dangerous part of your job?," the 54-year-old Wakefield resident says, "Getting on and off (the 900-foot) ships in heavy weather." Close your eyes and visualize the outer harbor scene. Inbound to Boston are 1500 foreign cars and the ship's captain radios the East Boston pilot office he will need a pilot on station within an hour.

Ohlson knows the 35-foot harbor channel like the back of his hand and maneuvers the Thomas Knox to a leeward position alongside the larger ship. The veteran pilot uses a walkie-talkie to advise the captain which side to lower the 40-foot jacob's (rope) ladder. Everything is timed and coordinated with precision as the lithe pilot makes his leap from the 70-foot pilot boat and catches the ladder like an aerial acrobat catches the swinging ladder at the circus. But there is ONE BIG difference at sea; there isn't any safety net and this is for REAL NOT SHOW. When the cold green sea is cresting 8' - 10' white caps, catching a rising and falling rope ladder can be risky business.

Sometimes Boston's weather is severe and visibility poor due to sea smoke or dense fog. Once the harbor pilot swings aboard and is met by a mate, Ohlson goes directly to the bridge and may advise the skipper to travel to the next nearest port of call. The boys in the pilot service call this "being carried away." Hello New York, Canada and Ft. Lauderdale.

Ft. Lauderdale? Next nearest port to Boston? Are we reading the same chart, captain? No - but that's one of the things this veteran harbor pilot loves about this "self-sufficient business." Ohlson got an unexpected and unusual Florida vacation in February 1978. Do you remember what you were doing during the great hurricane of '78? Ohlson does and says, "I was on the last ship to leave Boston Harbor aboard the Exxon Houston, a domestic oil tanker outbound for its home port" (Houston, TX).

When this writer asked Ohlson, "Why didn't you advise the captain to return to the safety of the inner harbor?" he says "It's the harbor pilot's responsibility to get them underway into international water or the open sea." However, after the next harrowing 48 hours, both the Houston's captain and Ohlson were kicking themselves for not remaining in Boston.

After rounding Graves Light at 1 p.m., the Exxon Houston began a roller coaster ride Monday, 2/6/78. The sky darkened and northeast winds whipped the usually friendly sea into a frothy fury. Whitecaps became sheets of never-ending spray and Ohlson's "sea legs" became wobbly when he saw one snow squall after another plunder the sea and wrap the Houston in a white shroud. The shaky captain and pilot must have thought this was Montezuma's revenge or certainly Dante's version of Winter's hell. George says, "The captain steered a 90 degree (east)course and maintained 2-3 knots (mph) just enough speed to held his position." The crew secured everything and mattresses were placed on the cabin floors. Even food dishes were wet down so they wouldn't slide across the tables.

Meanwhile the captain's confidence sunk further with the latest radio communication from Salem: FLASH - The Salem Pilot boat has sunk. By midnight Tuesday the Houston slipped past Nantucket Island heading south in winds that gusted to 79 mph.

Ohlson must have said a silent prayer Wednesday morning - he saw a lighter sky and moderating swells. The tired harbor pilot recalls spotting a commercial fishing boat riding heavy swells and realized how lucky that boat's crew and the Houston's were to be alive.

The Exxon Houston berthed safety at Ft. Lauderdale Saturday morning. Ohlson says, "This was a bitch of a storm - the worst I have have ever seen." George J. Stamos of Weather Services Corp, Bedford, agrees and wrote in his weather summary - "This was without doubt the worst winter storm to strike New England this century and in many areas the worst on record."

Is this a good profession, and would this veteran harbor pilot want his son to sign on for a 30-year hitch? The majesty and beauty of Boston's full schooners have sailed into eternity. The Boston Marine Society which was created 249 years ago is planning its 250th anniversary in May 1992. This is the state regulatory agency for all harbor pilots and the oldest marine society in the world. It's a proud and honorable profession but one that is slowly dying. Only 800 ships and 300 oil tankers visit Boston annually. When Ohlson started his service in 1955 there were 24 pilots and 10 apprentices. Today there aren't any apprentices and only 15 pilots. Furthermore, technology is knocking at Pier 1;s East Boston bulkhead.

Will there be harbor pilots in Boston in the 21st century? George Ohlson, a serious Swede with a tad of Irish and English blood, tugs nervously at his herring bone sports jacket lapels. He slowly says, "What the future holds, I don't know, but I think there is a long way to go before technology takes over for man."

Ohlson gets up and slowly walks away from the interview. It's time to go home and await the next telephone call for Pier 1. This harbor pilot's field of dreams lie in masts, mists and memories. This East Boston kid has grown up and lived his father's dream of guiding tall ships safely home.

ROVING

greeting him at the door. He called out her name. When she didn't respond, he walked down the hall to the bathroom, thinking she might be beyond a closed door. The bathroom was empty.

He checked the bedroom. Cynthia was not sleeping, either. He was suddenly struck with the thought that he hadn't looked to see if her car was still parked in front of the house. He went to the living room window, peered between partially closed curtains, and discovered her car gone. He couldn't understand why she wasn't there; it was her left hand that had been bothering her, and the last time he spoke with her, at mid-afternoon, she had told him she was still unable to drive. He wondered why she was mysteriously missing.

Anthony returned to the kitchen, and searched for a note. He spotted one on the table. He picked it up and read it. It said that she had begun to regain the use of her left hand, and decided to return home to get some errands done. The note said thanks for the wonderful night (they'd gone out for dinner the night before), and that she'd call later that night. A scribbled P.S. said that she promised to phone.

Something didn't settle well with Anthony. Setting down the note, he was still bothered by Cynthia's sudden departure. When he last spoke with her, she'd said her hand was still too sore to drive. Her car was an old Ford Maverick, with manual steering, and there was no way she could turn the wheel with her bad hand. Something caused her to depart suddenly, and for the life of him, he could not figure out what it was.

He walked back to his bedroom, and removed his watch, setting it on top of the bureau. He removed some cash from his pocket, opened a drawer to put it with other money he kept in the envelope. He was not certain how much cash was supposed to be there, but he had an idea of an approximate amount. When he picked up the envelope, it appeared lighter than he remembered from just that morning. Before adding his pocket money to the envelope, he decided to count the cash that was inside it. To his amazement, a large sum of money was missing. His first instinct was to blame himself; maybe I counted incorrectly the last time, he thought. He realized that that wasn't the case; he rarely miscounted his money. Obviously, somebody had taken some money from his drawer. The guilty party had to be Cynthia.

How could she steal money from him, he wondered aloud. They were intimate friends. If she needed money, all she had to do was ask for it. He would have given it to her. She didn't have to steal it.

There was nothing he could do about it; he would have to wait for Cynthia to call, then he would question her about it. Meanwhile, he finished emptying his pockets and undressing. He slipped into a robe, and prepared to settle down in front of the television. He nibbled on a sandwich, then realized he wasn't as hungry as he had thought. His appetite was not what it should have been, and he knew why. His mind was still reeling from the shock of Cynthia stealing money from him. He simply could not think of a reason why.

He was struck with another frightening thought: if she took money without asking, is it possible that she may have stolen something else from him? He didn't want to think it, but the possibility was there.

He hopped out of bed, dashed over to his bureau again. On the far right, he kept the expensive jewelry he didn't wear all the time: his college ring, an extra watch, a gold chain.

The gold chain was missing. Anthony had several pairs of expensive sunglasses there, too. His favorite pair, black Revo's with electric-blue lenses, were kept in a special black case. He picked up the case to feel for the glasses, only to discover that they were gone, also.

Anthony fell back onto the edge of the bed. His fingers unconsciously kneaded the sunglass case - the obviously empty sunglass case. Consciously, his mind focussed on a single shocking thought: his friend, Cynthia, had ripped him off. He felt his face flush with the redness and heat, as he tried to fathom why she would do such a horrible thing to him. With effort, he calmed himself. Be reasonable, he told himself, and he began to ask himself questions. His mind wandered back to the day before, in an attempt to piece together the events that brought him to this point.

The previous day he had been at work, and the phone on his desk rang. "I was surprised to hear Cynthia's voice on the other end," he told us. "I hadn't heard from her in quite some time. We dated for a while, then it became apparent that we were never going to make it as a couple, so we opted to be friends instead."

Anthony revealed that his decision to sever his and Cynthia's relationship was based on another factor, also: Cynthia had been a recovered cocaine user, and after a year of remaining straight, she returned to using the illegal substance. "I realized that, as long as she was using drugs, we would never have a chance at making a life together," he said. "So I had to leave. I was always there for support, though, if ever she needed me. From the sound of her voice on the phone that morning, I knew she needed me."

Cynthia asked Anthony if he would meet her later that day. "She wanted to talk," he indicated. "I was reluctant to meet her, at first - a lot of time had passed, and I was concerned about digging up old feelings."

End of Part One.

Keeping casual furniture in tip-top shape

Much of today's casual furniture is designed to shrug off the wrath of Mother Nature. But to keep it in tip-top shape, preventive maintenance is a must. Here are some tips from the editors of NewHome Magazine.

•Wicker furniture should not be left outside. However, because it does not like dry climates or overheated homes, it should be rubbed lightly with mineral oil and cleaned with a damp cloth on occasion.

•Steel and aluminum furniture deserves to be treated like the finish on your car: Spray it with liquid floor wax and wipe the excess off with a cloth. Also be sure to obtain a container of touch-up paint at the time you buy the furniture so that you have it on hand at the end of the season.

•Resin furniture can be wiped clean with a damp sponge and warm soapy water.

•Polyvinyl-coated polyester fabrics can be cleaned with a mild detergent and water. Clean with a solution of three gallons of warm water, one cup of liquid laundry detergent, and one cup of bleach.

•Vinyl seating should be washed with a mild soap and water solution.

•To clean acrylic fabrics, use lukewarm water and mild soap, and rinse thoroughly with a damp sponge. To remove mildew, mix a solution of one gallon of water, once cup of bleach, and two capfuls of liquid laundry detergent. Spray on the stains and allow to sink in before sponging off.

FIRST AID COURSE AT WINCHESTER

Winchester Hospital offers a Standard First Aid Course teaching lifesaving medical techniques such as CPR, rescue breathing, chokesaving, control of severe bleeding, first aid for broken bones and treatment for poison and burn victims.

After completing this course, participants will have the skills and knowledge to assist accident victims who are in potential death and disabling situation.

This two part course is offered from 6 to 10 p.m. on June 6th and 13th at Woburn YMCA and 6 to 10 p.m. on June 11th and 12th at The Regional Health Center in Wilmington.

To register and for price information, contact the Winchester Hospital's Education Department at (617) 756-2220.

SPANISH STUDENTS SEEK FAMILIES

Boston and its surrounding suburbs have been chosen as a host city for 25 students from Spain by International Education Forum, a non-profit organization based in the U.S.

The students will hopefully arrive on June 28 and return to Spain on July 26. However, 25 families from Boston and its surrounding suburbs are desperately needed to host the students in order to make this academic summer exchange program a reality. To date, only 12 families have been recruited.

The Spanish students wish to become a part of American family life and improve their English language skills while they are here. They bring their own spending money and also have international travel health insurance. They only need a place in an American family's heart for four weeks.

If you are interested in hosting a student from Spain, please contact Carol Henderson of International Education Forum at (617) 661-2665.

INNKEEPERS' REGISTER IS PUBLISHED

The third edition of The Innkeepers' Register, a guide to 219 country inns of North America, has been published by Berkshire House Press (formerly Berkshire Traveller Press) of Stockbridge. The Innkeepers' Register is the official publication of The Independent Innkeepers' Association, founded by Norman T. Simpson in 1972.

This new edition features a four-color cover with a water color of an inn designed by Janice Lindstrom. The book has 126 pages and the main body is organized alphabetically by State and then by regions of Canada. Within that, the member inns are listed alphabetically, three to a page, with a regional map locating each inn in relation to major highways.

Under each inn's listing is a photograph of the inn, a descriptive thumbnail sketch, number of rooms, rates and meal plans, directions, address and phone numbers, as well as nearby cultural and recreational attractions.

In the rear of The Register is a list of 44 British inns, country house hotels, B&B's, manor houses and small hotels, all of whom are affiliates of the IIA. This section was added to help the inn aficionado who travels abroad.

The Innkeepers' Register is available from bookstores, or from The Independent Innkeepers' Association offices in South Egremont for $6.95 by calling 1-800-344-5244.

UMASS OFFERS CAREER HELP TO ALUMNI

Alumni of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst can pick up career tips May 11 at the third annual Alumni Career Day at the Cambridge Center Marriott Hotel in Kendall Square in Cambridge.

The day will feature workshops designed to help alumni choose careers, identify employment opportunities and advance on the job.

The keynote speaker is Richard Harriman, class of 1967 and chairman of the board of Synectics Corporation, the 30-year-old international research and consulting firm that specializes in bringing innovation to business.

The career day is just one of the services the University of Massachusetts at Amherst provides for its alumni in an effort to provide assistance and a life-long link to the University. The University's Mather Career Center also has just begun operating a service to match recent graduates and current students with older alumni as mentors. Called the University Computerized Alumni Network (UCAN), alumni who are established in their careers volunteer to talk with relatively recent alumni.

Alumni wishing to know more about UCAN may telephone the Mather Career Center at (413) 545-2224. Alumni wishing to register for the Alumni Career Day may call the same number by May 1. Cost for the day is $15 plus $4 for parking.

Career Day is co-sponsored by the career center and the Office of Alumni Affairs. The University has graduated over 130,000 alumni in its 129 years, the majority of whom are under the age of 45 and reside in Massachusetts.

TOTAL Emergency Care
FOR MAJOR AND MINOR ILLNESSES AND INJURIES
Now patients with minor emergencies don't have to wait in line while more serious problems are treated. Total Emergency Care at Melrose-Wakefield Hospital treats both big and small emergencies quickly. Between the hours of 11 a.m. and 9 p.m., seven days a week, a doctor and nurse from our emergency medical team exclusively treat people with minor problems. You spend less time waiting and more time with the doctor and nurse.
It's not always easy for a person to know how serious a minor emergency might be. That's why it's comforting to know that the treatment you receive is backed by the staff and services of an entire hospital. If your injury or illness is more serious than it seems, you are at a full service hospital.
For medical emergencies, big and small, come to where people care more about you.

The young actors and actresses are very talented children from the Abundant Life School.

For tickets or information call (508) 657-8710 or 658-3046.

PAIN MANAGEMENT GROUP OFFERED

People who suffer from chronic physical pain can learn specific ways to reduce their pain and distress in a program offered by New England Memorial Hospital (NEMH), Stoneham. The "Chronic Pain Management Group," one component of a comprehensive pain-treatment program, may be of help to anyone with chronic pain, including those with orthopedic injuries, arthritis, headaches, musculoskeletal pain or pain of unknown origin.

Group members will learn specific coping skills, including relaxation and stress management, pain reduction strategies, methods of altering negative thinking and approaches to lifestyle management. Participants will also gain support from others with similar problems and build coping abilities to apply to daily life.

The group will be led by Robert L. Miller, Ph.D., a member of the behavioral medicine program of the NEMH Department of Psychiatric Services and an instructor in psychology at Harvard Medical School.

The 10-week group will meet on Mondays from 5 to 6:15 p.m. beginning in May. Individual, pre-group interviews are now being conducted to determine eligibility. The group is covered by Medicaid and most insurance plans, including many health maintenance organizations (HMOs). For more information, or to register for the "Chronic Pain Management Group," call Dr. Miller at (617) 979-7025, Ext. 3187.

ARTS COURSES AT COMMUNITY COLLEGE

North Shore residents interested in improving their artistic skills, dancing ability, acting, guitar strumming, or photography talent should consider registering for one or more classes at NSCC during its six-week summer session starting June 24th.

Classes will be scheduled at the Rockport Art Association, the Sohier Road facility and the Lynn Campus. Course titles include: Air Brushing, Basic Drawing, Introduction to Calligraphy (Italic), Calligraphy (Illumination) Workshop, Draw Your Own Conclusions, Oil Painting - An Introduction, Wet-On-Wet Watercolor, Beginning Ballroom Dance, Ballroom Dancing 2, Fun With Ballroom Dancing, More Fun With Ballroom Dancing, The Actor and The Script, Adult Actor's Workshop, Easing Into Guitar 1 & 2, Basic Fingerpicking, Guitar Duets, Basic Camera and Nature Photography.

Interested students (who recently received the course schedule or call for a catalog) may conveniently register by mail until June 8th. There will be a 4 to 8 p.m. walk-in registration at Sohier Rd. on June 12th and 18th in Rooms 224-226; and at the Lynn Campus Cafeteria (same hours) on June 13th and 19th.

IS LIFE WORTH LIVING?

Attend the ethics workshop, "Is Life Worth Living?" offered by Winchester Hospital. A video presentation of three actual case studies will be presented followed by a discussion with professionals representing the medical, legal, nursing and religious disciplines.

This program is offered in from 3 to 5 p.m. on May 9th at Winchester Hospital. To register and for price information, contact the Winchester Hospital's Education Department at (617) 756-2220.

STRESS MANAGEMENT PROGRAM AT NEMH

Stress can affect the way people feel, think and deal with others. To help individuals cope with stress and its causes, New England Memorial Hospital (NEMH), Stoneham, is offering the "Stress Management I" program.

The course helps participants to identify the sources of harmful stress, which can affect a person physically, mentally and emotionally. A person's relationships with family, friends and co-workers also can be affected. Coping techniques are taught to allow class members to relax and deal more effectively with pressure.

The program meets on Wednesdays from 6 to 8 p.m., from May 22 through June 26. For more information, or to register for the course, call the NEMH Center for Health Promotion at (617) 979-7057.

BREASTFEEDING IS TOPIC OF LA LECHE

Next Monday, May 13, the Burlington Group of La Leche League of Massachusetts will meet to discuss "The Advantages of Breastfeeding to Mother and Baby," at 8 p.m. at the home of Sandra Ottariano at 58 Pearl St., Woburn. Women of surrounding towns are invited to attend.

This meeting begins a new series of four monthly meetings open to nursing mothers and their babies, as well as pregnant and other interested women. The discussion is informal, with opportunity to ask questions and share experiences.

The group maintains a lending library of books on breastfeeding, childbirth and child care.

For directions and further information, please call the group leaders at (617) 944-0377 or 272-8930.

ELDERHOSTEL PROGRAM AT REGIS COLLEGE

The Regis College Department of Continuing Education will sponsor an Elderhostel program for people 60 years and older on July 21-27 at the Weston campus. Applicants will be admitted regardless of previous educational experience. The all-inclusive cost for the residential program is $275. Commuters are also welcome at a fee of $160.

Regis faculty members offer two classes in the morning and one in the evening: Boston's Literary Secrets, Comparative Religions: East and West, and Reviewing and Previewing our Lives.

The Elderhostel program was established in 1975 as a new movement in American adult education. Today it is an international network, including over 1,000 institutions, for older adults who want to continue to expand their horizons and to develop new interests and enthusiasms. For complete information on the Elderhostel Program, contact Sister Mary Louise Morgan, Elderhostel Coordinator, at (617) 893-1820, Ext. 2008. Registration is on-going.

School notes

by phyllis nissen

—Burlington Marshall Simonds Middle School science teacher Neil J. Lusas is one of 12 teachers nationwide to be named "Educator of the Year" by Continental Cable in its second annual "Cable in the Classroom" competition. The competition recognizes educators for the most original and effective use of cable television education programming in their daily teaching.

Lusas won the honor - which includes a three-day, all-expenses-paid trip to DC - because of his innovative use of "CNN Newsroom," a commercial-free daily TV newscast for students. Other Simonds teachers working with Lusas and 110 eighth graders on "The Cable News-Wise Class" are language arts teacher Kathleen McKenna, civics teacher Paul Goodwin, math teacher Ronald Adams, and media specialist Arthur Pinsoneault.

Burlington High anthropology teacher Carolyn Weiser and Spanish teacher Laurie Ann Smith were finalists in the national competition.

—Kindergarten registration in North Reading saw a jump of 40 kids over the present kindergarten population, with the same number expected next year and another increase of about 15 in the 1993-94 school year.

North Reading Superintendent of Schools Francis X. O'Donoghue anticipates the need for at least one additional half-time kindergarten teacher in the fall, although that position hasn't been specifically included in the school budget.

During the past two years, the town has lost 26.5 teaching positions due to budget cutbacks and, in some cases, class sizes have increased to 30 students.

—According to Woburn Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum Louise Nolan, Woburn's students performed better on statewide basic skills tests for grades three, six and nine than the state average and have steadily improved since the tests began in 1987.

According to School Committee Chair Janice Callahan, the higher scores result from a cooperative effort among teachers, administrators and parents; an enhanced homework policy; positive curriculum changes; and the fact that Nolan has been in Woburn for five years.

—A+ for educational leadership, school management and his relationships with the School Committee and community for the marking period between August 1990 and now: Lynnfield Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jeffrey Young has made the grade, according to a document recently released by the School Committee.

"Excellent and outstanding," say committee members, describing his five-year curriculum plan, systemwide goals, frequent visits to schools, open-door policy, and communications with senior citizens and local realtors, among many others.

Young also made it through last year's evaluation magna cum laude.

Living proof that a heart attack can save your life.

When Tom DiNuccio was wakened by sharp chest pains, he thought, like so many victims of a heart attack, that it was the end. On the contrary, it was just the beginning. The beginning of a new way of life that would give Tom something very precious—a second chance.

Though he was only 44 years old, everything about Tom's life had put him at risk. Too much stress. Too little exercise. Too little awareness of a healthy diet. Basically, he lived like most of us do. But having a heart attack saved Tom's life. Motivated by fears of a reoccurrence, he came to New England Memorial's Cardiac Rehabilitation Program. Here, Tom was introduced to new ways of thinking, eating, exercising, and coping with stress that have become the foundations for a whole new lease on life.

And because having a heart attack at such a young age—at any age—is a real psychological blow, Tom's rehab included valuable counseling and support that, in his words, "Helped me get on track and made me want to help myself."

Today, when asked what his special interests or hobbies are, Tom's answer is simple: "I enjoy life." Living proof that cardiac patients who want a second chance really take our advice to heart.

Folks, what do you see when you look at a seed catalogue? Do you envision (as I do) beautiful flowers and delicious vegetables growing in your garden? What do you see when you look at a child? Do you see hope that he or she may be a future Dr. Jonas Salk or Dr. Albert Sabin, a caring parent or a wonderful dedicated teacher? What do you see behind a person's smile? We can see only HOPE that behind that smile, there's a warm, gentle compassionate heart.

My cousin Angelo Quagneti and I went to Revere Flea Market at the cinema last Sunday. We stopped to watch a painter do a life size portrait of a man's head from a small photograph. As we walked away, I said to Angelo, "Gee, that artist is good." "What's so great about him? I paint people too." "I didn't know that," I exclaimed. "Sure, I paint men and women - 'Men" on one door and 'Women' on another door. My brother Michael is a painter too. He is up in Maine painting "Pointers" and "Setters" on doors in the hunting lodges."

Folks, if we are not leaders the scenery never changes. Five garden club members visited my Aunt Nora who was sick with arthritis. After each one of the visitors had something to say about almost every individual in town (that would make Jack the Ripper seem like a choir boy) they got up to leave. Mary D., the president of the garden club said, "I hope you feel better soon, Nora. We'll pray for you." "Never mind praying for me," Aunt Nora exclaimed, "just wash the sink full of dirty cups and saucers. I can do my own praying!"

Sgt. Jones ordered soldiers standing in a long line to lift up their left leg and hold it up. A soldier lifted up his right leg - so he was standing next to a man who had his left leg up. St. Jones shouted, "Will the blooming idiot who has both his legs in the air, put his right one down?"

At an Elk's Hall party Kathy wore a "Peek-a-boo" dress. Some of the men peeked, then booed! Well the plans are made and it's all systems "go" for the upcoming marriage of Joe (Peanuts) Leardo and Cookie. I heard it's going to be a double ring ceremony -- they are going to stand in a bathtub!

The French have a beautiful saying -- "Viva Le Difference." My friend Alves Jordans is a six foot two inch, 200 pound blockbuster who could easily be mistaken for a Green Bay Packers linebacker. His hobby is stamp collecting. Rosie Greer used to do needle point and no one ever dared kid him about that. The late Dr. Jones (a dentist) had an elaborate model trail collection. The right of way of his railroad empire ran through his living room, then into the dining area, continued to the hallway and front foyer, then back to the railroad yards in the living room. The freight train with its boxcars, cattle cars and coal and tank cars had traveled over bridges, through tunnels and farmland. Then of course there are avid golfers, baseball and basketball fans and even my 85 year old Aunt Nora is a Bruins hockey fan, so as the French say, "Viva Le Difference!"

A business man can't win. If he does something wrong he's fined -- if he does something right he is taxed.

What's in a name? "Plenty!" and don't let anyone kid you (Shakespeare not withstanding). The great singer Mario Lanza's real name was Mario Cocoza which means squash in Italian. You would probably be surprised to know the real names of your favorite movie stars.

Two silkworms were in a race and they both ended up in a tie -- Richie Hamel of Winchester is proudly wearing it. Mario DiMino of Stoneham told me that he learned in Sunday School that Adam was born in the late afternoon -- a little before Eve. They live in Paradise because neither one of them had a Mother-in-law so they were Abel to raise Cain.

A friend of mine was over to my house for dinner. He asked me, "Chipper, why is your dog looking at me so funny?" "I don't know, Dick, but maybe it's because that's Rover's dinner plate you're using."

A Snake Charmer married an Undertaker. Their towels are marked "Hiss and Hearse." Al Pymm said, "Sir, I would like your daughter for my wife." "Wal," the old gent replied, "bring your wife over tomorrow and I'll tell you whether or not I'll swap."

Richie Hamel stopped his car at a Woburn Square bus stop and asked, "Hi cutie, wanna ride?"

"Are you going north?" "Yes." "Give my regards to the Eskimos!"

Advice to avoid spring ailments

Spring can be a wonderful season, especially in New England when our winters seem to last forever. Many times when warmer weather arrives, we quickly launch into activities without realizing the consequences of our actions. With summer right around the corner it's important to use common sense when indulging in warm weather.

Following are some helpful tips from Lata Mundkur, M.D. at The Woburn Walk-In Center on common Spring ailments to watch out for.

Allergies

If you think you have a spring cold, have taken an antihistamine but the cold lingers, you may have allergies. Pollen from certain trees and grasses are spring culprits. Dr. Mundkur suggests, "Don't let allergies go untreated, if you think it may only be a cold, watch it carefully. Itchy eyes and sneezing are symptoms of allergies. It could be an allergy to pollen, certain trees or grasses. A consultation with an allergist begins the process of getting relief. Options include making adjustments in your home or work environment, taking an effective over-the-counter drug, or undertaking a tailored program of shots."

Sprains

Whether your spring day includes yard work or a change in your exercising regime, Dr. Mundkur recommends that you warm up, stretch out and take breaks from repetitive motions. Eight hours of raking your yard after months of physical inactivity may cause pulled muscles, sprains and strains. "By simply warming up and then stretching out your muscles, you may help prevent an unnecessary orthopedic problem," says Dr. Mundkur.

Sun Protection

It may not be Summer yet, overexposure on a sunny Spring day can give you just as severe a sunburn as sitting on a beach in July. Going under cover is your best protection against sunburn and ultimately skin cancer. "Sunscreens should be worn with an SPF rating of 15 or higher that screen both UVA and UVB rays," says Dr. Mundkur. "Avoid the midday sun (10 a.m. to 3 p.m.). If you still burn, switch to a higher SPF rating. Remember, your skin probably hasn't been exposed to the sun since last summer, so its even more susceptible to burns."

Lyme Disease

When activities this spring and summer take you outdoors, guard yourself against tick bits. Dr. Mundkur says, "make sure clothes fit tightly around the wrists and ankles when walking through a wooded area. Avoid walking through ankle length or high grass where ticks are thick.

"If you do find a tick, remove it properly by grasping it behind its head with tweezers and pulling slowly and steadily without squeezing the body. Once the tick is removed, wash your hands and apply antiseptic to the bite. If you have been exposed to a tick, see your physician. Untreated, Lyme Disease can affect your heart, joints and nervous system."

The Woburn Walk-In Center, which treats patients on a walk-in basis, is located at 21 Warren Ave. The Center provides patients with the convenience of on-site laboratory and X-ray facilities.

"Kindermusik" at Stoneham Library

Olga Zlobinsky of Reading conducted the unique "Kindermusik" program at the Stoneham Public Library as part of its "Friday Night" program on April 18th.

Kindermusik was founded by Lorna Lutz Heyge, a holder of many degrees in music. She began work with young children in 1971, when she assisted in the development of a music curriculum in cooperation with the West German Association of Youth Music Schools.

She later was commissioned to translate, adapt and test that curriculum in the United States and Canada. She is now a music consultant for the Toronto Montessori schools and works with many schools in the United States.

The program is one for both child and parent. They learn together, developing a wonderful new bond through music. The child uses his or her whole body in learning through song, body movements, dance. Play and learning go hand-in-hand.

At school, there is interplay of child, parent and teacher as well as with the other children and parents in the class. At home, there is also musical "interplay," for the parent, too, has materials to replay all the songs and dances done in class.

Finally, the child through the program develops voice, body movement, memory, rhythm and increased vocabulary. It is a fun program that allows for social and emotional development. Kindermusik is a holistic, bonding program for children from 18 months to five years old with their parents.

Ms. Zlobinsky received many calls telling her how much the Stoneham program was enjoyed.

Spring and summer activities calendar

The free "Spirit of Massachusetts Spring and Summer Calendar of Events" is now available from the Massachusetts Office of Travel and Tourism.

The 1991 April through September 15 calendar lists more than 300 fairs, festivals and celebrations in the cities, seashore and countryside of Massachusetts. Highlighted events include the A.C.C. Craftfair in West Springfield, Boston's Harborfest, Old Sturbridge Village's 19th-century Fourth of July, a Teddy Bear Rally in Amherst, seafood festivals on Cape Cod and music, theatre and dance performances in the Berkshires.

Also included in the Spirit Calendar is a Whale Watch Guide listing 17 whale watch cruises from Cape Ann to Cape Cod.

Stepping up the pace helps walkers

Fast walkers may be doing more than speeding up their exercise time, according to a new study from Dr. Kenneth H. Cooper's Institute for Aerobics Research, which found that the higher the walking intensity, the better the fitness benefits.

Presented at the National Conference on Cholesterol and High Blood Pressure Control, the 24-week study of women walkers showed that walking a 12-minute mile can increase fitness levels by four times and burn 53% more calories than at a 20-minute/mile stroller's gait.

There's also good news for walkers who prefer to smell the flowers, according to the study, which was funded by NaturalSport, the walking shoe brand from Naturalizer. Researchers found that a regular program of walking at any speed can actually increase HDL blood cholesterol (the so-called "good" cholesterol) by up to 6%, a real benefit for maintaining a healthy heart. In fact, for every 1% improvement in HDL, risk of coronary disease drops by 3%.

According to the study's clinical investigator, John J. Duncan, Ph.D., to optimize fitness (as measured by oxygen uptake) and burn more calories, one should walk at a pace of moderate to high intensity (15 min./mile to 12 min./mile). Women who walked at an aerobic pace increased their cardiorespiratory fitness by an average of 16 percent, a rate comparable to that achieved through other vigorous activities, such as running, cycling and swimming, but with far less risk of orthopedic injury. In fact, out of a total of 20,000 miles logged, not one participant sustained a walking-related injury that necessitated consultation with a physician, according to Duncan.

The study evaluated 102 premenopausal women who were divided into four groups of various walking intensity: 12 min./mile (aerobic walkers), 15 min./mile (brisk walkers), 20 min./mile (strollers) and a sedentary group. All active participants walked three miles, five times a week, and wore NaturalSport walking shoes from Naturalizer.

If a gas range flame isn't blue it isn't efficient. To save energy it should be repaired.

"GEMS"

Now open at Museum of Science

Hidden like buried treasure deep within the earth's crust and formed by thousands of years of intense heat and pressure, gemstones have stirred the excitement, fascination and imagination of man since the earliest civilizations. GEMS, a major exhibition which debuted at the Museum of Science on May 5, takes visitors on the often perilous journey of stones from mines to cutting wheel and finally into the opulent jewelry that adorned the wealthy and the powerful from Egyptian pharaohs to Russian czars.

An exclusive Boston engagement, the $40 million, 900-item exhibition runs through October 27 and features the big as well as the beautiful -- some of the world's largest gemstones and most exquisite jewelry in existence today.

"Gems are more than just beautiful objects," says Museum of Science Director David Ellis. "They provide clues about the earth's formation and offer insight into the cultures of many different civilizations. Our exhibition shows all these aspects with a dazzling array of widely differing gemstones and minerals."

Visitors to GEMS first enter a giant "cavern" where gem pockets of tourmaline and amethyst contrast with giant gem crystals brought from Paris especially for the exhibition.

With more than 900 fabulous gems, jewelry pieces and minerals on display, GEMS offers visitors a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to see:

—The "Champagne Topaz," the world's largest cut gemstone, sparkling, pale yellow and the size of a football, it weighs 16.4 pounds (or 36, 854 carats);

--A horse bridle lavished with gold and more than 50 astonishingly beautiful emeralds, as well as 14 other extravagant pieces of jewelry once owned by Catherine the Great and other Russian czars;

--The Hamlin necklace, considered one of the most famous pieces of North American jewelry. Its stunning tourmalines in greens, blues, yellows and reds come from the Mt. Mica Mine in Paris, Maine, the first gem tourmaline mine discovered in the U.S.;

--One of Liberace's rhinestone-studded outfits, so dazzling that seamstresses wore dark glasses while sewing it.

Other exhibition pieces prove that gem artistry spans time, from a three-thousand-year-old lapis and turquoise Egyptian bracelet to twentieth-century gem sculptures in a variety of fluid, abstract shapes carved by Rumney, N.H. artist Michael Dyber.

Admission to GEMS is $2 in addition to regular Exhibit Halls admission: $6 adults, $4.50 children 4-14, senior citizens and college students with valid I.D. For further information, group rates and exhibition hours, please call (617) 523-6664.

Health Center Advisory Board

When Winchester Hospital assumed ownership of the Regional Health Center in Wilmington last year, the Health Center's Advisory Board looked forward to exciting and worthwhile changes. Currently made up of seven people who live and work in the communities served by the Center, the board has a dual purpose says its chairman, James Ficociello, D.D.S., a dentist in Wilmington.

"We fit the classic definition of a community advisory board, in that we serve as a conduit for information and concerns from the community to the Health Center's administration and staff," he explains. "And just as important, we act as an advocate for the health center within the community, to ensure that people understand what resources are available at the Center.

William and Chris Lindsey of Tewksbury are husband-wife members of the board. Bill Lindsey puts the 'classic' definition of the board's role this way, "We serve as the Health Center's eyes and ears in the neighborhoods it serves." The Lindseys suggest that the community let them know of their problems or suggestions, which they will bring to the health center's attention.

Raymond MacNamara, owner of MacNamara Tire in Wilmington, has been an active member of the board since the Health Center opened in 1978 and is currently its treasurer. "The Center is vital to the community," he says. "But for it to be truly responsive to the community's needs, people need to let us know what kind of services they want and need."

The board meets quarterly to address service and administrative issues of concern to the community. For example, if there's a need for a certain type of medical specialist or community health education program, the board brings it to the Center's administration for consideration.

The Regional Health Center currently offers a range of service including Walk-In Urgent care services, internal medicine and obstetrics/gynecology. Referral services including laboratory, radiology, rehabilitative and nutrition services are also available.

Kathleen Barnes, Director of the Regional Health Center, comments, "We would like the community to share with us any of their health needs and wants. They should feel free to suggest any recommendations or discuss any concerns."

"If a community resident has a concern or problem, I'm always available," says Gerald T. Richards, a board member from North Reading. "I'm also glad to pass along folks' appreciation or words of praise, too."

Wilmington resident Sandie Cushing, the Board's secretary, and Chris Noyes of Tewksbury comprise the rest of the board. Noyes, who joined the board two years ago, comments, "We try to monitor the attitudes and ideas in the community, and resolve individual problems that are brought to our attention."

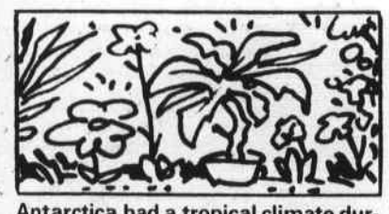

"And bringing issues to the board's attention is really the key," adds Kathleen Barnes. "Because we can't resolve a problem or address a need that we don't know about.

Welcome to the middle ages for women between 40 -60

Mothers' Day, May 14th, is just around the corner. For those interested in giving mom something unique this year, Winchester Hospital is offering, "Welcome to the Middle Ages," a program for women ages 40-60.

The program will be run by a Winchester Hospital Registered Dietitian, physician and licensed social worker. Participants will learn about the optimal nutrition for the 90's - staying fit and healthy, therapy for premenstrual syndrome (PMS) and menopause and issues of the "Sandwich Generation."

"Welcome to the Middle Ages" will be held on Tuesday, May 14th from 7 to 9 p.m. at The Regional Health Center in Wilmington, an affiliate of Winchester Hospital. For price information, call Winchester Hospital at (617) 756-2220.

Antarctica had a tropical climate during prehistoric times, warm enough to support abundant vegetation.

Music Show benefits athletics

On Saturday, May 11th, a full evening of musical entertainment will be presented in the 1000-seat sanctuary of Woburn's First Congregational Church on Main Street. All receipts from the show will help with the medical expenses of Kurt Carlson, a Woburn resident who is being treated for cancer.

Starting the concert at 8 p.m. will be the Mishawum Choral Society. The 75-member group has performed at services and benefits throughout the region from the early '60s. They have sung many times at this same church, and over the last nine years, Robert Hodgson, a Woburn teacher, has been their Director. Members of the Mishawum Choral Society even create their own clothes for their performances.

The second half of the evening will feature songs by the Sound of Concord. This group is a Chapter of the 35,000 member International Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America. The Sounds of Concord formed in 1970 and boast 75 active members. In performance they usually put between 50 and 60 men on the risers.

The Sounds have yet to lose a Division Championship when signing in competition with other Society Chapters in their Division, and presently are the Champions of the Northeastern District which includes seven divisions in all of New England, eastern New York State and the Maritime Provinces of Canada.

Open to all, the evening's proceeds will go toward the Kurt Carlson Trust Fund which was started by family friends to help with the costs of Kurt's cancer treatments. The 23-year-old Hinston Road man was stricken with the disease early in 1990, and has shown progress after major chemotherapy, radiation, and a bone marrow operation.

Kurt was the guest of honor at a fund raising dance last month at the Elk's Club, yet, nearly $40,000 in medical bills not covered by insurance remain from the intensive treatments Kurt has undergone. When he is completely recovered, Kurt, a 1985 Woburn High School graduate, hopes to begin studies for a career in forestry.

For information on tickets to the May 11th concert, the public is requested to call (617) 933-1229 Tuesday through Thursday between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. and in the evenings or any other time, (617) 935-1511. A limited amount of tickets will be available at the Church the evening of the performances.

Parents and the SATS

Registration is now being accepted for Parents: Getting To Know The Sat offered by the Minuteman Tech Evening School. This one session class meets Tuesday, May 14th, 8 to 9:30 p.m. at Minuteman in Lexington. Parents of college bound junior high and high school students obtain in-depth information on the content and purpose of The Scholastic Aptitude Test, a critical college admission examination.

The lecturer, Roberta Wolman, has been successfully preparing students for the SAT for more than 15 years. Students enrolled in her programs have registered gains ranging between 60 to 180 points. In addition Ms. Wolman is a Reading and Learning Disabilities specialist with expertise in Study Skills.

Participants learn answers to a multitude of questions surrounding the exam. What are the prerequisite verbal and math skills? How can parents develop and guide their youngsters' academic program in preparation for the exam? How important are test scores in the college admission process?

Parents will explore these issues and more as they view actual sample SAT exams. Participants become familiar with math, verbal and the Test of Standard Written English. subtest questions.

For your convenience, you may register by calling Minuteman Tech Community Eduction at (617) 861-7150, 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday. Telephone registration is accepted with credit card payment. The course fee is $10. To obtain specific course information contact the instructor during the day at Minuteman or in the evening at (617) 395-8045.

What's Doing

—An Arts & Entertainment Update—

BRIAN SHEA AND CHERYL SALATINO will perform in the Burlington Players production of "The Boys Next Door" scheduled for May 9 through 12 and 16 through 18.

"EXTREMITIES" PERFORMED IN ANDOVER

"Extremities," a study in extremes will be presented by the Andover Theatre Company on May 10th and 11th in Andover.

"Extremities" as presented boasts a cast of four very talented individuals. As director, Kimberly Enders of Wilmington had the difficult task of casting a rapist, a victim who fights back, and two female roommates who question the victim's fight, from the dozens of auditioning actors.

The choices were made and the director has the privilege of working with a very serious group of actors who have studied their craft and their characters. This is a difficult, emotionally-draining show that could not be produced well with any less commitment.

Esther Jako of Haverhill plays Patricia, the social working roommate.

Esther, who grew up in Andover, was last seen in ATC's "Witness for the Prosecution."

Cathy DeBurro of Salem, N.H. plays roommate Terry.

DeBurro says this performance "is a hell of a challenge because what's being shown is real and people need this type of eye-opener."

The characters who are involved in virtually every scene are Raul, the rapist as portrayed by Dennis Lorne of Lawrence and Marjorie, his victim, played by Maureen Woodell of North Reading.

When asked why he's so good at the role of Raul, Dennis Lorne is quick to state, "I am not a rapist, I am not a violent person, but I've felt anger and lust and as an actor you channel your own emotions and magnify them through the mind (in this case the very sick mind) of your character."

Maureen Woodell and Dennis Lorne are friends. In the play she is brutally and emotionally attacked by his character. But as Maureen states, the friendship, trust and caring are inherent in making the brutal scenes realistic. "I have to trust Dennis not to go too far when we hit and throttle each other. He has to have that same trust in me. At one point Dennis was very sick and thought he may not be able to do the show. I felt, if Dennis isn't Raul, I didn't know if I could do the show. We've invested a lot of ourselves in this."

Andover Theatre Company is taking a risk performing such an intensely disturbing play. "Extremities" is rarely seen in community theatres. Mature audiences are encouraged to view the performance at Old Town Hall, Main Street in Andover on May 10 and 11. All performances are at 8 p.m. and tickets are $8 and $6. For information and reservations, call ATC at (508) 475-4221.
